RALPH MCGILL

Your Son, Now 3 Years Old—

Let us assume you possess a son or daughter, now about three or four years of age.

You plan to send him, or her, to college about 15 years from now.

Ahead of you, and the United States, is a decade and a half of excitement, dismay, hope. By the time your son or daughter is ready to enroll in college the number of persons in the colleges will be roughly double that of today.

What that will mean to the state colleges and universities in agonized legislative appropriations for buildings and equipment, and the even more troubled search for faculty, is easily, though not comfortably, imagined. For the privately endowed university the outlook is even more complex. State legislatures are, after all, answerable to the voters who want their sons and daughters educated, or exposed to it. They will somehow find the taxes for the buildings. But private endowments will not greatly increase. Tuition costs cannot go much higher. They do not now cover the cost of the student. Will private colleges be forced to curtail, or limit, enrollment? How many will be able to survive?

Double

The U.S. Office of Education estimates, conservatively, that college enrollments will double their 1954 level somewhere between 1966 and 1971. The first date is the more likely.

This same theoretical son or daughter, and parents, will have come through even more desperate years of elementary and secondary school trials and tribulations. Reliable statistics, checked and rechecked by federal and private research consultants and agencies, indicate that just five years from now—1960—elementary enrollments will be 24 per cent above 1954. In 1950, for example, elementary pupils totaled 22 million. The estimate for September, 1955, was 29 million.

What does this mean to already-crowded, double-session, teacher-short schools?

There are signs now of erosion in the quality of education. There is, in many areas, a hopeless shortage of teachers.

There just won't be enough teachers. One of the suggestions advanced by the just-released Fund for the Advancement of Education bulletin is for increased use of college graduates who, in effect, obtain their teacher training by teaching and, after a proscribed period, are certified. Even this will not provide enough teachers.

'Aides'

Other suggestions are for use of teacher aides, just as nurses freed themselves for professional duty with nurses' aides. Elementary teachers spend, for example, from 21 to 69 per cent of each school day on "housekeeping," clerical and other activities requiring little or no professional competence. The "aide" system has been tested in pilot projects across enough years to prove success.

Use of television on which master teachers reach many classes at the same time, the extension of the time of the better teachers to more students in class rooms; moving the superior students along in special classes and freeing teachers for more time with the average or slower students, are but some of the experimental proposals. Certainly treating all pupils the same, and all teachers as if they were the same, is not an efficient system. There must be improved utilization of the existing short teacher supply.

Meanwhile, the big question demands an answer.

Why the large turnover in the teaching profession? Why do so many teachers "quit"?

Even more important, why is the profession of teaching, certainly one of the most vital and honored, so lacking in appeal to the young men and women eyeing a career?

There are answers. They will form the basis for the third and concluding article in this series. Meanwhile, with the rising wave of enrollment approaching through the years ahead, the citizen, the community, city and state which is not aware and planning will find itself inundated. In fact, it may be anyhow.

22 Georgia Cities Reject Power Pact

Oppose Limiting Clark Hill Flow

By DEAN RHODES

Constitution Staff Writer
GRIFFIN, Nov. 10—Officials of 22 Georgia cities operating municipal electric systems Thursday said "no" to a proposed government contract to supply them power from Clark Hill dam.

But they said they were still interested in securing power from the dam.

Included as "unacceptable" in the proposed contract were: a limitation on services within 150 miles of Clark Hill and the taking of power equally at stations.

CAME AT MEETING

The decision came after a meeting called by officials of the Georgia Municipal Assn.

Following a morning session and closed afternoon session at the Griffin Elks Home, East Point Mayor Al Roberts said, "The association's power committee has been instructed to continue meeting with the Interior Department with an open mind, and to represent municipalities, irrespective of positions taken by other interested parties."

In refusing the new proposal, the city officials agreed to seek a contract which would benefit all cities in the Georgia Power Co. system, not just those within 150 miles of the Clark Hill site.

WANT CONTROLS

Also it was urged that cities be allowed to control amounts of energy delivered to each of several points within their limits.

The rejected contract resulted from a July ruling by the Atty. Gen. Brownell, which labeled a 1954 proposal advocating purchase of federal power by municipalities from Georgia Power Co. as "illegal."

Mayor Roberts criticized the Interior Department severely for not keeping Georgia municipalities advised on the progress of the latest contract.

Roberts declared that, although the tri-county proposal was overruled in July, many Georgia municipalities did not learn of the action until late September.

Griffin City Mgr. Elmer George charged the Interior Department was prepared to proceed on Sept. 28 without consulting the municipalities.

He said he felt it necessary that we demand "our inherent rights of the 1944 act."

"We're not fighting anyone,"

Tenn. Baptists Okay Negroes At 4 Schools

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10 (AP)—Trustees of Tennessee's four Baptist-supported schools were authorized today to admit students of "all races" from now on.

The step was taken in a resolution approved by the some 2,000 "messengers" to the 81st annual meeting of the Tennessee Baptist Convention.

Schools affected are Union University at Jackson, Belmont College at Nashville, Carson-Newman College at Jefferson City and Harris-Chilhowee Academy in Sevier County.

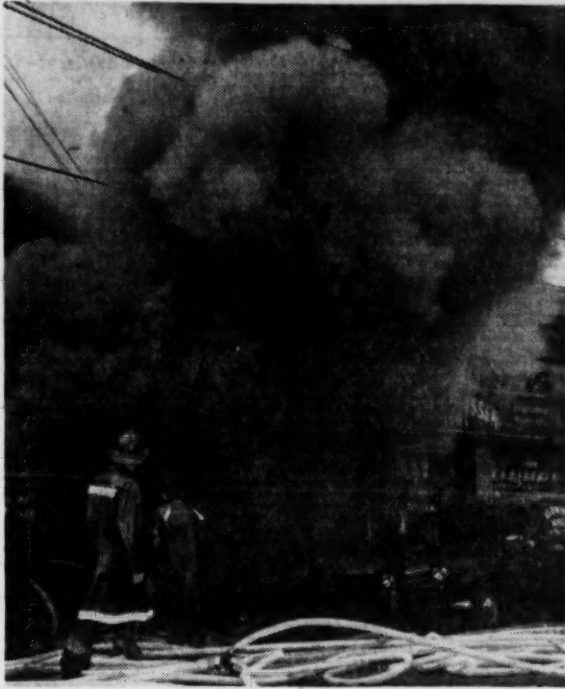

The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote. It originated at the recent Baptist Students Union convention in Clarksville, Tenn., attended by 500 high school and college students.

Regent Requests Study Of Counties by Expert

A study and reappraisal of all of Georgia's counties could result in a big saving in taxpayers' money, a southeast Georgia leader said Thursday.

Everett Williams of Statesboro, member of the Board of Regents and former state senator, made this statement in commenting on The Atlanta Constitution's recent series of articles on county government.

The series, based on a spot check of counties representing different population brackets, suggested that the General Assembly launch a thorough study of county government and county-state

FIREMEN FIGHT TWO-ALARM BLAZE
Smoke billows from fire which started in basement

$100,000 Fire Damages Furniture Store Here

A two-alarm fire caused an estimated $100,000 in damages Thursday afternoon to the Northside Furniture Co. at 1013 Peachtree St., N.E.

The blaze started shortly after 2 p.m. and snarled traffic in the Tenth Street shopping district for almost an hour. Flames heavily damaged the basement and sub-basement of the store.

Mrs. Irene Weston, of 1649 Nottingham Way, N.E., who owns the building and business, said the blaze apparently started when workmen unloading new merchandise placed a cardboard furniture container against a heater in the sub-basement.

SAW SMOKE RISING

Mrs. Weston said she saw smoke coming through the floor from the basement while working at her desk on the main floor.

She sent George Freeman, a salesman, down to see if the heater was smoking, as it occasionally does, she explained.

Freeman went down to the sub-basement and remained there about five minutes before Mrs. Weston, who, being unable to get his attention from the ground floor, called the fire department and then a man from the street to see if Freeman was trapped by the blaze.

ESCAPES BLAZE

Freeman and the passerby managed to push the burning container out a rear door, but only after the blaze had spread throughout the room. Freeman said the smoke and fumes forced them out "just in time."

Firemen extinguished the fire as it neared the ground floor, burning and heavily damaging merchandise in the basement and sub-basement.

Mrs. Weston said most of the furniture on the two lower floors had been sold and was awaiting delivery.

Dive to 30 Due By Sabbath

Friday is expected to be fair and warmer, but you'd better hold your extra woolies in readiness for Saturday night or early Sunday.

That's the tip from the weatherman.

A cold front moving south is expected to drop Atlanta temperatures from a 38-62 range Friday to a low of "30 or below" by early Sunday. The front is expected to bring "wind and showers" Friday night and a Saturday daytime range of 45-55. Thursday's extremes were 38 and 62.

Big-Toothed Man Sought In Slaying

By JIMMY WALKER

Constitution Staff Writer
DALTON, Nov. 10—Whitfield County officers Thursday searched for a "man from Georgia" with big teeth and a craving for beer as the last person seen with Clois Hill, Birmingham divorcee slain and dumped on a lonely dirt road near here.

Sheriff H. P. MacArthur said he is convinced of a "local angle" to the strangulation killing of the 26-year-old woman.

Meanwhile, two volunteer fliers, June Henderson and Bert Gallant, searched the sparsely settled woodlands around Dawsonville for Miss Hill's missing 1952 Chevrolet sedan.

Officers believed the car will prove the next link in tracing the woman's journey from a round of Birmingham cafes to the roadside spot where she was found Tuesday morning.

A tip that a car, a man and a woman answering the descriptions were seen in Dalton early Tuesday morning came from Jewell Langford, a pressman for The Dalton News and Citizen.

Langford told officers that as he was starting home from work about 2:30 a.m., a dark green Chevrolet turned the corner in front of him. The left door swung open and almost hit Langford's car, he said. The pressman said a stocky man with a rather large head got out to close the door. Inside was

Ike Pronounced Fit for Flight to Capital Today

DENVER, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors gave the chief executive a final medical examination today prior to his scheduled discharge from the hospital tomorrow and pronounced him in fit condition to fly back to Washington.

The concluding medical bulletin of President Eisenhower's stay of nearly seven weeks at Fitzsimons Army Hospital said X-ray and fluoroscope studies of the President's heart and chest showed no cardiac enlargement.

The doctors said the examinations were satisfactory and revealed no changes.

The President will leave the hospital at about 8:20 a.m. tomorrow.

Don't Fight, U.S. Warns Middle East

Strong Language Marks Messages

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (UP)—The United States said today it has given Egypt and Israel blunt warning "it will be strongly opposed to the side which starts a war" in the strife-torn Middle East.

The warning, strongest yet to the angry Israelis and Arabs, was disclosed by the State Department.

In emergency, would take arms from anyone, Sharrett says. Page 11.

ment. It also said this country "would be favorably disposed to the side which convinces us that it desires to maintain peace."

Department spokesman Lincoln White said the warning was implicit in President Eisenhower's statement Wednesday outlining short and long-range policies to end the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

STRONG LANGUAGE

He said it was conveyed in even stronger language to the two nations through diplomatic channels.

President Eisenhower supported a 1950 U.S.-British-French declaration which called for immediate action, "both within and outside the United Nations," to prevent any violation of frontier or armistice lines between Israel and the Arab states.

Informed sources said the even stronger warning was sounded by U.S. officials here to Israeli and Egyptian ambassadors, by American ambassadors in the two countries, and to Israeli, Egyptian and Arab representatives at the United Nations.

WAR "UTTER FOLLY"

White, asked if the United States expects a war between Egypt and Israel, said, "We certainly have expressed our opposition and have been doing everything we can to convince both sides it would be utter folly to start a war."

Pressed for an elaboration, he said, "This country has let it be known that it will be strongly opposed to the side which starts a war, and would be favorably disposed to the side which convinces us that it desires to maintain peace."

White said this is strictly a U.S. position. But he said he thought recent proposals by British Prime Minister Anthony Eden closely paralleled those made by Secretary of State Dulles last August.

Train Kills Rail Official W.E. Plunkett

William E. (Sarge) Plunkett Sr., 66, of 519 Oakland Ave., S.E., terminal superintendent for Atlanta Joint Terminals, was killed by a train Thursday near the terminal office on Carroll street, S.E., police said.

Dets. O. W. Jordan and J. G. Adams said Mr. Plunkett evidently fell under the wheels of an Atlanta-West Point freight train bound from Atlanta to Montgomery, Ala.

Evidence showed he was first struck by wheels of the fourth car from the engine, the detectives related. The train was halted at Oakland Station in West End.

Grady Boswell of 1327 Boulevard Lorraine, S.W., the conductor, said he saw Mr. Plunkett standing near the tracks as the train passed and waved to him. He said Mr. Plunkett waved in return.

$3 Million Gas Stock For Expansion Urged

By BOB SIBLEY

Atlanta Gas Light Co.'s board of directors Thursday recommended sale of $3 million worth of preferred stock to help finance a record $7.4 million expansion program.

A special stockholders' meeting has been called for Dec. 7 to act on the board's recommendation.

R. G. Taber, Atlanta Gas Light Co. president, said the $7.4 million for expansion during the next 12 months—will go principally for mains, services and meters for new customers.

Plans call for bids to be opened Dec. 7 and the stock sold Dec. 14, Taber said.

At the same time, the board of directors declared a 35-cent quarterly dividend on common stock, payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 18.

The common stock dividend represents an increase of five cents per share per quarter, or an annual payment of $1.40 per share compared with $1.20 heretofore. This is the first dividend increase the company has had since the common stock was sold publicly.

Taber said Atlanta Gas Light Co. spent $6,950,000 on expansion during the past 12 months.

7 Seized Here In Raids on 2 Liquor Stores

By JACK NELSON

Federal agents confiscated the stock of two Atlanta liquor stores and arrested seven persons Thursday afternoon to break up what they described as a huge dry-county liquor racket.

Aided by state agents, federal agents raided the Paul Harrison Liquor Store, 32 Irby Ave., N.W., Buckhead, and the Red Circle Liquor Store, 774 Marietta St., N.W.

Five late-model cars were seized. Value of liquor stock confiscated was estimated at $50,000.

A federal agent on duty at one of the liquor stores said the liquor operation extended into dry counties in the Atlanta area, as well as counties on the Alabama and Tennessee borders.

Molotov Dims Geneva Hopes By Rejection

By DREW MIDDLETON

The New York Times News Service GENEVA, Nov. 10—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov today launched a formal, detailed attack on President Eisenhower's plan for aerial inspection and mutual exchange of military information between the Soviet Union and the United States.

The plan does not contribute to reduction of armaments nor does

RUSSIAN DEMANDS

Russia can only give favorable consideration to the plan, Molotov said, if it forms part of comprehensive proposals for the reduction of armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons.

Molotov praised Eisenhower's "good intentions." But he criticized the President's proposal—lauded in the free world as epochal—as inadequate because it does not cover U.S. bases overseas, and because, he contended, it involves a costly and prolonged operation.

The plan would increase suspicion rather than confidence and provides no guarantee against surprise attack, Molotov said.

STAMP OF FUTILITY

The uncompromising statement by the Soviet foreign minister stamped the conference's opening discussion on disarmament with the hallmark of futility.

Although both the Soviet Union and the three Western powers presented proposals for disarmament, the meeting was shadowed by British Foreign Secretary Macmillan's assertion to the ministerial group that "our inability to make progress at Geneva towards the reunification of Germany in freedom inevitably

30 Jet Fighters Bought by Egypt From Italy Firm

ROME, Nov. 10 (AP)—Egypt is buying 30 Vampire jet fighter planes from an Italian firm, it was learned from an authoritative source tonight.

Delivery of the new planes under a cash-on-delivery contract signed six months ago is expected to start next month. The purchase price is not known.

Recent deliveries of arms from Red Czechoslovakia to Egypt via Soviet Black Sea ports has caused alarm among the Western Powers over a possible resumption of open war between the Arabs and Israelis.

Strauss Reports Soviet Atom Tests Continuing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Another Russian atomic test was reported today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The formal announcement said criticism of American nuclear tests, the United States announced in the United Nations it would continue both hydrogen and atomic bomb tests until the Russians stop theirs.

Some tests of low explosive force were held last week in the Nevada desert with the announced-in-advance aim of studying the safety of various weapons in handling and storage.

Fourteen nuclear explosions were set off last spring, ending May 15, at the Nevada test site.

The word in London was that the new Russian series began just after the Geneva summit conference of the Big Four leaders in July, which was aimed at easing world tension. The United States is also proceeding with its test program.

The U.S. commission reported last Sept. 24 that the Russians had set off another nuclear explosion "indicating a continuation of their tests of nuclear weapons."

DULLES AND MOLOTOV
At Geneva today, Secretary of State Dulles said it was urgently necessary for the great powers to find a formula for preventing any uncontrolled spread of atomic weapons throughout the world. He did not elaborate precisely what was in his mind.

Also today at Geneva, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov proposed in the Big Four foreign ministers conference that the major powers immediately renounce the use of atomic weapons, as a first step toward world disarmament.

Kefauver Plans To Test His Strength In 4 State Primaries, Friends Reveal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) will announce his presidential candidacy in about three weeks and discuss plans to enter at least four state primaries next spring, friends of the senator said today.

Kefauver's associates dropped this word as Adlai E. Stevenson flew here for an overnight visit before going on to Charlottesville, Va., for a speech tomorrow night. Stevenson will announce his candidacy formally Tuesday.

The two prospective rivals for the Democratic nomination did not meet today. But Stevenson said he assumes they will see each other in Chicago next week at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee. Both are scheduled to speak.

One of Kefauver's close associates said the Tennessee Democrat will issue a formal announcement of his candidacy. It will be coupled with a statement on plans to test his strength in a number of state presidential primaries.

The friend said Kefauver's tentative plans involved primary tests in New Hampshire, California, Wisconsin and Florida. The announcement will come after Kefauver cleans up some official duties, including congressional hearings.

The California primary could produce a head-on clash between Kefauver and Stevenson if the latter follows the advice of some advisers who believe he should make a show of strength among rank-and-file voters.

California would be a logical choice for such a test. Stevenson would go into the state with the backing of most top Democratic leaders.

A Kefauver victory would cast the Tennessee in the role of "giant killer" since most polls put Stevenson far in front.

Stevenson told reporters at the airport he was not "house-hunting" in the capital. He declared that Tuesday's off-year elections, in which the Democrats scored notable victories, "served me just fine."

Stevenson lunched today with

Flood Peril Alerts Northeast As Rainstorm Moves Up Coast
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Weather Bureau warned today of prospective moderate to heavy rains in the Northeast, and said they carry a "potential flood danger" where streams are already swollen.

Police Pay Raise Voted Out; Traffic Tickets Flood Town

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., Nov. 10—A small blizzard of traffic court summonses blew across this city today in the wake of an election-day defeat of a police-and-fireman pay-raise referendum.

Mayor Donald W. Kramer issued a statement which appealed to policemen not to be "petty or vindictive" because they lost their fight.

The voters rejected the $782 pay raise request, 15,688 to 7,362, in Tuesday's voting. Mayor Kramer said Binghamton policemen, from midnight election night until 11:45 p.m. Wednesday night, issued a total of 270 traffic tickets. This figure, the mayor said, is greater than the number of traffic tags issued in the entire week preceding the voting.

GM Given No War Lead On Engines, Inquiry Told

Ex-Official Credits Research
For Big Locomotive Output

By JOHN D. MORRIS
The New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—A former officer of General Motors Corp. denied today that preferential treatment by the government in World War II gave the company a head start over competitors in production of diesel locomotives.

Harold L. Hamilton, who retired July 1 as vice president, produced figures to show that the company's share of the locomotive market actually dropped off in the war years.

He attributed its present dominance to years of research, proper engineering, planning for the market and high efficiency in production. General Motors now produces 76 per cent of railroad locomotives sold in the United States.

"TREMENDOUS ADVANTAGE"

Hamilton was a day-long witness before the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, studying growth and economic power of General Motors as an example of "big business."

William F. Lewis, vice president of Alco Products, Inc. (formerly American Locomotive Co.), testified yesterday that wartime government orders giving General Motors exclusive authority to manufacture over-the-road diesels afforded the company a "tremendous" advantage.

Hamilton said other companies had a similar "tremendous advantage" in the switch-engine field, which General Motors was prohibited from manufacturing during the war.

SHELTERED POSITION

"They were running under a sheltered position on switching locomotives," he said. "We were running under a sheltered position on freight locomotives."

He said General Motors had 57 per cent of the total locomotive market in 1941. This dropped, he reported, to 53 per cent in 1942 and 40 per cent in 1943, rising to 50 per cent in 1944, 51 per cent in 1945 and 65 per cent in 1946.

General Motors produced 116 switches in 1942 and none in 1944. In wartime regulations gave his company an advantage in over-the-road engines, he asked, "then why doesn't their advantage continue on the basis of switching locomotives?"

Hamilton's rebuttal came at the end of a detailed account of his part as a pioneer in the development of the modern diesel locomotive. He recounted how he founded the Electro Motive Engineering Co. in 1922 "with one stenographer and one secretary and with my own money."

In collaboration with the Winton Motor Co., he built up a thriving business in gasoline-electric cars used on short run in those days by many railroads, he said.

N.O. Barmaid Clear in Boys' PoisonDeaths

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10 (UP)—The district attorney's office refused today to charge a 30-year-old barmaid with murder in the death of two small brothers who died in a hospital here Oct. 13 of phosphorous poisoning.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Moss Falcon, was arrested by police this week on suspicion of murder because she allegedly had an argument with the boys' mother and had threatened to "get even."

"We find no basis whatsoever in the evidence presented for prosecuting Mrs. Mary Falcon in connection with the death of these children," said Adrian de Plantier, first assistant district attorney.

The two boys, William Baughman Jr., 7, and his six-year-old brother, Lawrence, were found critically ill by police Oct. 12 in the squalor of a one-room apartment where they lived with their unemployed parents and five sisters. They died of a type of poison used in rat and roach control. Police said they found roach paste in an apartment occupied by Mrs. Falcon in the same rooming house.

WIFE EMBRACES FREED JUDO EXPERT—LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10—James Baker, 33, is embraced by his wife, Elaine, after a coroner's jury ruled the death of Edward Bollinger, 41, was justifiable homicide. Baker, a former world judo champion, threw Bollinger over his shoulder after Bollinger assertedly drew a knife in an argument concerning a dog.

Like Matching Roughnecks and Aristocrats, N.J. Rejects Turkey Contest With Illinois

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 10 (UP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner has turned down a challenge to match New Jersey against Illinois in the "1956 heaviest turkey contest."

Meyner said Illinois turkeys are just too big and rough for the likes of New Jersey's aristocratic breed.

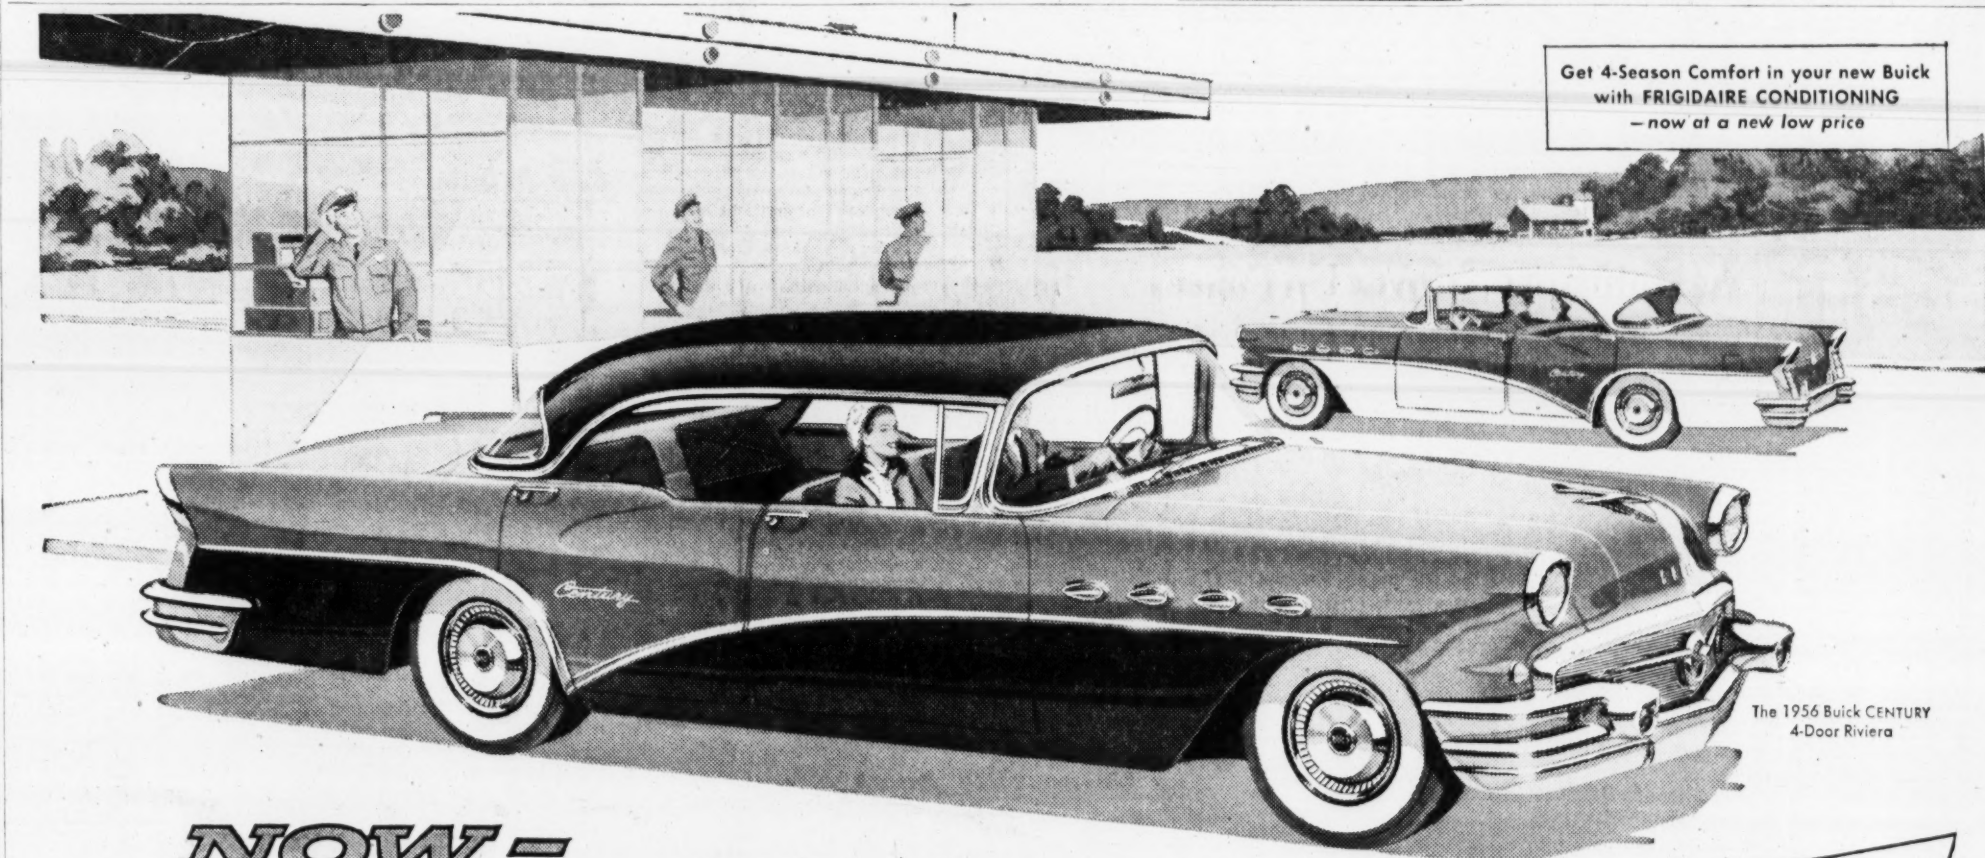

On top of that, the governor said, the Garden State gobbler couldn't win.

Meyner turned down a challenge from Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, sponsor of the contest along with the Illinois Turkey Growers' Assn.

In a tongue-in-cheek letter, Meyner told Stratton, "New Jersey looks coldly upon your boast that unless the monsters you are feeding break out of their corral, Illinois is likely to run away with the competition. Our turkeys regard mere brawn with as much disdain as a duchess looking at bugs."

The Democratic governor continued: "With a lineage dating back 200 years, to the days of Charles II, our turkeys have an aristocratic tradition. Their flowing lines and graceful contours might have been designed by Michaelangelo. Their feathers are by Christian Dior; their crests by Lily Dache; per-

(That's the New Variable Pitch Dynaflo*)

OF COURSE, you can floor the pedal of this stunning new '56 Buick and get the full-power sweep of its advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.

That's how you switch the pitch of this airplane-principled transmission for instant safety-surge acceleration to get out of a tight spot on the highway.

But now you get a brilliant new response at the start of pedal travel, too.

Now you get a solid take-hold for instant take-off in the first inch of pedal action—where most of your normal driving is handled. And you get this great new getaway with a big boost in gas mileage, too.

So there you are, just nudging the pedal, and getting action that makes you feel like you've floored it.

There you are, handling all your normal driving situations with a confident toe-touch—with new surety and snap—and with the happy satisfaction that comes with a sizable step-up in the miles you get from a tankful of gas.

And there you are, rolling along with beaming pride as boss man of the best Buick yet.

For here you have, beating any past Buick, the greatest power yet—the boldest styling yet—the sweetest ride yet—the smartest interior yet—and, by far, the best buy yet.

Drop in on us this week—tomorrow, if you can—and see for yourself that there's never before been anything like this Buick beauty for 1956.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Pacific Area Scoured For Last of 5 Chutists

HONOLULU, Nov. 10 (UP)—An armada of rescue planes and ships searched the stormy Pacific 650 miles northeast of here today for the last of five crewmen who parachuted into the sea from a crippled C119 Flying Boxcar Wednesday night.

Four of the five airmen were Bay picked up 1st Lt. D. O. Nelson, pilot, and 1st Lt. D. N. Hubbard, co-pilot, both of Amarillo AFB, Tex.

At least 18 aircraft and 17 surface vessels, operating in the gusty aftermath of a dying tropical storm, pressed a concentrated search to find the fifth crewman, identified as Airman 2-C, Jerry C. Caywood, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The search was spurred by the report of Air Force Capt. David E. Pihl, search commander, who said he was certain the fifth man was alive because he spotted five lights on the surface during Wednesday night's darkness.

The Flying Boxcar, which steamed 76 miles to the scene at top speed picked up 1st Lt. Kenneth E. Whitney, the plane's navigator, and Airman Harry W. Brinegar, the flight engineer, only a few hours after they had bailed out. Shortly after dawn, the Flying

Veterans Day Has Special Significance

Today is Veterans Day and throughout Georgia and the nation the occasion will be observed with oratory, parades and memorial services.

The day has many meanings.

First, of course, it gives us all an opportunity to pay tribute to the men and women who have served in the armed forces, on the battlefields, in the air and on the seas. It permits us to honor those who gave their lives so that freedom might live.

Secondly, it is a fitting reminder that this nation, its freedom and institutions and its standard of living didn't just happen. They were won by a people willing to fight for them, by a people who believed in the ideals of their country enough to stand up and be counted at the showdown.

There has been no generation of Americans which has not known war. In calling ourselves a peace-loving nation, it is well to remember that we've been in small and big wars on an average of once each quarter century. Some of them have been reluctant wars, but we've fought them nevertheless.

The truth is that we are an aggressive people—actually a crusading type of people who have little patience with the ideals, customs and attitudes of others. American influence has moved steadily outward, even while some of our political orators preached isolation to a receptive audience at home.

Today we find ourselves involved in every corner of the globe and our ideals and beliefs challenged everywhere. Veterans of George Washington's army would find it strange should they return today to find U.S. troops in Europe, Asia, Africa—almost everywhere.

These troops are defending American ideals and liberties just as truly as did those of Washington's army almost two centuries ago.

Today, on Veterans Day, it is well to remember that we are becoming a nation of veterans—almost 20,000,000 have served in some branch of the armed forces. It is an even bet that the stranger you pass on the street is one of them.

Survival of this nation and its ideals in the world depends upon its people and their leaders. America was not built by the fainthearted nor will its greatness last if we lose our will to defend it and our belief in ourselves. Therein lies the real significance of today's celebrations.

Mr. Mallard Is Named Salesman of the Year

The Legislative Economy Committee has turned its attention to the highway department and its preference for tar over asphalt.

Asphalt, according to various estimates before the committee, ranges 4 to 10 cents a gallon cheaper than tar. It was described as almost, but not quite, as efficient as a paving material. The difference in quality hardly could be worth the 4 to 10 cents a gallon difference in price.

Testimony showed that the purchasing department bought tar for the highway department on instructions. There was a reluctance to name the instructor, and as far as the public is concerned, he still is nameless.

The committee also heard that this fondness for tar is not confined to this administration. There was a lot of tar bought during the administration of Gov. Herman Talmadge.

One familiar name turned up during the hearing. Big Wade Mallard of Augusta was described as the seller of many, many gallons of tar to the state so far this year.

Mr. Mallard is well known to observers of the Georgia political scene. He was holding the fort with Ellis Arnall when the Talmadges forced the door of the governor's office during Georgia's brief two-governor period.

Considerably later he acquired a reputation as a Talmadge supporter.

He acted as chauffeur for one of the gubernatorial candidates during the summer of 1954 and it wasn't the Talmadge-nominee winner, Marvin Griffin.

Ticket Speculation Is a Dangerous Game

Ticket scalpers are having it tough in Georgia this year.

Those who have been picked up at Grant Field before Georgia Tech's sell-out games have been treated with proper severity.

And now Columbus, which will be host at the traditional Georgia-Auburn clash on Saturday, has placed prospective scalpers on warning. The city commission, mindful of complaints of scalping at last year's game, has passed a special ordinance making scalpers liable to a $250 fine or 90 days in jail, or both.

The Georgia-Auburn game is something of a big family party held year after year, but regrettably the size of the stadium in Columbus limits the number of those who can attend. The game, therefore, is a natural for scalpers, but perhaps the city commission's action will discourage members of this brazen fraternity.

The big test of the law versus scalping will occur on Thanksgiving weekend when Tech and Georgia meet in Atlanta. This is another of those big family parties, with the meeting place again inadequate to the demands made on it.

Because of the early sellout, special permission has been obtained to televise the Tech-Georgia game, a sop that may please lukewarm football fans, but still leaves red-hot fanatics at the mercy of scalpers holding a nice inventory of tickets anywhere inside the gate.

Florida Health Board Again Backs Fluoridation

In 1949 the Florida State Board of Health approved in general the policy of fluoridation of public water supplies to reduce tooth decay.

After seven years, the Florida health board has re-examined the issue and reaffirmed its policy. It has done so in a 16-page report giving communities the green light on fluoridation and categorically denying that the program would have an adverse effect on those drinking the fluoridated water.

At the hearing in August, opponents of fluoridation presented 23 exhibits purporting to show that the program causes fluorosis and other ailments. The Florida board questioned dependability of the diagnoses offered in opposition and noted that there was no confirmatory X-ray or laboratory evidence.

Speaking as president of the board, Dr. Herbert L. Bryans of Pensacola said:

"The board is convinced as to the desirability of fluoridation and knows of no more democratic method of sharing responsibility with the local communities for this program."

"No original observations or new data were presented by the opponents (at the Aug. 20 hearing) which established a need for change, and the proponents have provided data which strongly reassures the board as to the justification and need for its present policy."

"It therefore reaffirms its established policy."

Opponents of fluoridation say they are not given an opportunity to present their side.

The Florida health board reopened the case after seven years, heard both sides, weighed the evidence and decided once more for the affirmative.

A Confederate Idea Continues To Develop

Submarines tossed a few desultory shells ashore in the United States during World War II, with more psychological than actual damage.

Next time, though, things will be different, according to Chief of Naval Operations Arleigh A. Burke. Atomic weapons mounted on atomic subs will make these always versatile undersea craft twice as versatile and twice as dangerous as ever.

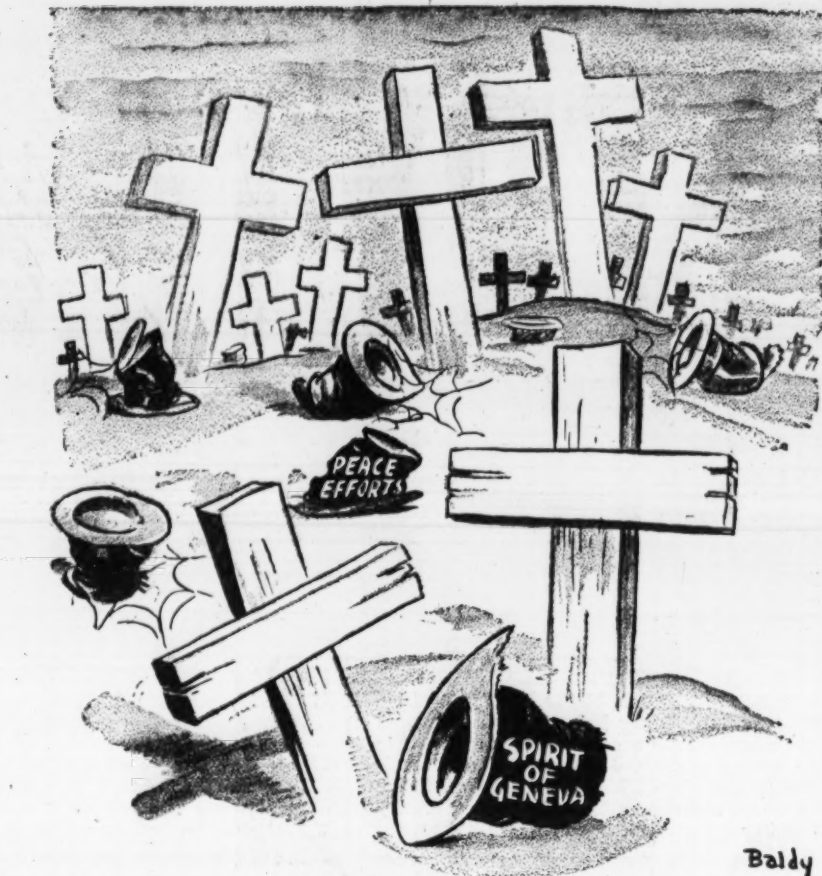

Apparently these new subs will be quite as dangerous to shore installations as was the old-time battleship. About all World War II subs could do in the way of shore bombardment was lob a few shots landward in hopes of hitting something that would burn and damage civilian morale.

Since the War Between the States when the Confederacy pioneered in undersea warfare, submarines have been growing progressively more lethal. They were decisive factors in World Wars I and II and only constantly improving methods of antisubmarine warfare saved the sea lanes for the Allies.

That breathless race between new submarines and counteroffensive measures will be even faster as time goes on. It is with pleasure we note Admiral Burke's statement that the Navy is developing antisubmarine weapons as rapidly as it is developing new submarines. For at the latest report Russia had the greatest undersea fleet in the world, and it would be naive to suppose that their ships were technically less perfect than ours.

Less than two hours before he was killed in a wreck, movie actor James Dean got a ticket for speeding 65 miles an hour in a 45-mile zone. Police say that to get from the scene of that ticket to where he was killed, he must have driven at an average speed of nearly 75 miles an hour. It took death to teach him.

Insurance Man Points Out That Buyers Receive in Proportion to the Price Paid

Atlanta — In reference to your recent headline, "Unhappy Hospitalization Policyholder Complains of 'Irresponsible' Practices," the policyholder acknowledges that the company was correct in denying liability. Therefore, why the necessity of headlining "irresponsible" practices?

He stated that he found out the company had a practice of denying claims. The public could avoid a great deal of trouble with claims, if they would pick their agents and companies more carefully. Often times, they are looking for bargains, and they get what they pay for. As in all products, there are no bargains in insurance.

I would appreciate your printing this letter. Being a professional insurance man for 26 years, I do not feel that letters, such as the one printed, are deserving of headlines.

BERRY RITTENBAUM

Editor's Note: The letter in question was featured Nov. 5 because it was topical. The writer was not the first to complain of cancellation of his policy when it was most needed. Such publicity ought to benefit the vast majority of reputable insurance men and remind the public that times have not changed much since the Romans warned buyers to beware.

More and Not Fewer Private Schools Needed

Decatur — I was surprised and somewhat grieved to read in The Constitution that Georgia Methodists were thinking of closing two of their colleges. Surely it will be deplorable to close private colleges, as such schools have been and are the backbone of our national educational life.

Let us keep our private colleges, the centers of freedom, democracy and Christianity. And let us erect even more of them for the progress of our Empire State of Georgia.

B. M. SHARIAN.

The Democrats Need A Democratic Leader

Atlanta — Surely you would not expect the Republicans to pick their second-best candidate. Mr. Gallup's poll shows Nixon leading by one percentage point even though the independent vote is taken into account.

Why don't Democratic editors put their journalistic talents to picking a Democratic candidate from those who actually know what the word means and understand the principles on which the party was founded?

J. W. JACKSON.

Gov. Griffin Lauded For His Dalton Stand

Atlanta — For your fine editorial, "Governor Griffin Is Right in Protecting Property" (Nov. 5 edition), you deserve the gratitude and commendation of every Georgia citizen who believes in the right of an individual to work at the job of his choice, free of coercion, intimidation or interference from any source whatsoever.

Governor Griffin showed rare courage and statesmanship when he sent state troopers to Dalton

In order to protect both property and human rights, after the local law enforcement agencies demonstrated that they were either unwilling or unable to stop the violence and the lawlessness that threatened those rights.

Such a forthright policy is the best insurance that we could have that Dalton, a great textile center, will not become another Fall River or New Bedford or Lawrence (Massachusetts).

Printers Set The 'T' Level

Ida Belle Williams, faculty member at South Georgia College, Douglas, is an "I" specialist.

That is not to say that Miss Williams is an "I" specialist. As a long-time teacher of English, she qualifies as an expert on the first person singular nominative.

The other day this column quoted the late W. W. Whitaker, inimitable editor of the Grenada County (Miss.) Weekly, as asking one time why we capitalize the "I" when "me, mine, we and our, you and your" do not get the same attention.

Miss Williams has written from the college at Douglas that the answer is found in histories of the English language. She says the custom originated in England when printers requested authors to capitalize the pronoun "I" to distinguish it from the small "i". The authors evidently complied.

Before that, the printers had been having trouble telling the little "i's" from the little "j's". "As far as I know," says my erudite informant, "no language except English writes the pronoun I with the capital."

Even one of France's eccentric, egotistical Louie's, for instance, said, "L'etat, c'est moi!" with a lower case "m".

Come to think of it, could not the word be defined as the person who insists on keeping the conversation at the "I" level?

UPPER CASE OVERDONE: Speaking of capitalization, observations from the desk of a journalist indicate the tendency of most people who write for publication is to overcapitalize.

The feeling seems to be that the upper case letter dignifies the office. That's why the publicity director for the Monday Afternoon Sewing Circle is apt to make her release read: "The Chairman of the Refreshment Committee and the Corresponding Secretary, etc."

On the contrary, the Associated Press style book rules that even the word president is capitalized only when it refers to the President of the United States as a person. In referring to the office alone, the style book dictates "candidate for president of the United States."

To Believe in God Brings Confidence

To believe in yourself you must take three essential steps: Visualize yourself as succeeding; second, be willing to be yourself; and third, get into a right relationship with God. Consider that third step, it is the most important of the three.

William James had a deep understanding of human nature. He said: "Every sort of energy and endurance, of courage and capacity for handling life's evils, is set free in those who have religious faith." Note what he is saying—you have energy, endurance, courage and capacity but religious faith is the key which unlocks these powers within you and sets them to work.

Huxley, the English scientist, said that everywhere in England, deep within the soil, are thousands of seeds of tropical plants. They have lain there dormant for years waiting for just one thing, the proper climate. If the climate of England could be changed into a tropical climate, those seeds would immediately spring up into lush, beautiful foliage.

We remember that when certain Egyptian tombs were opened some years ago, wheat was discovered in them. For 4,000 years that wheat had remained in the dry darkness of those tombs. When it was brought out and planted, it grew and produced a crop. All that was needed was to put the wheat into proper relationship with the earth, the air and the sun.

And when you or I come into right relationship with the Spirit of God, when the warmth of His love begins to surround us and when His power begins to flow into us then the energy, endurance, courage and capacity which have remained dormant within us begin to rise and take hold of our lives.

There was a father sitting on the front porch of his farm home when he saw a truck driven by his own son turn over into a ditch. He ran to the scene of the accident and found the boy pinned down under the truck in two feet of water. Though he was a small man, the father lifted that truck and pulled his son to safety. The next day he tried to lift the truck again but couldn't move it. In explanation, a doctor explained that in the moment of great need, nature sent a terrific shot of adrenalin into the man's system and he had strength he had never known before.

Almighty God built within us certain spiritual mechanisms and, when they are rightly used, we have the ability to accomplish things far beyond our normal abilities. "The kingdom of God is within you," said Jesus (Luke 17:21) and He wants to bring it out. St. Paul discovered this power and he said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" (Phil. 4:13). Repeat these words. Repeat them now. Keep on repeating them until they become fixed in your mind. So fixed that doubts and fears are driven out. Also, St. Paul said, "If God be for us, who can be against us" (Rom. 8:31). Really, who or what can defeat us when God is within us? Believe in God and you will believe in yourself.

What Will Ike Do? Timetable Offered

WASHINGTON—Here, I believe, is an informed report and time-table in answer to the most frequently asked question in the United States today—what will President Eisenhower do about the 1956 Republican presidential nomination?

1. The President has not yet decided to withdraw. Every bit of evidence is that the question is still open in his mind.

2. He does not intend to make the decision casually or precipitately or prematurely.

3. He will give principal weight to three factors: (1) the state of his health, (2) the state of the nation, (3) the state of the world.

4. Because the extent of Mr. Eisenhower's recovery will be controlling, the prospect now is that no decision either way will be made, let alone announced, until February. The information is that the heart specialists want a minimum of four months from the date of the attack before they can render a medical judgment on how fully and securely the President has recovered.

5. The sliver of possibility that Mr. Eisenhower may still run for a second term should, perhaps, be increased slightly. Several who have talked with the President in Denver have genuinely gained the impression that there is a real prospect he will say yes. There is undoubtedly some wishful thinking in this estimate. Nobody can unequivocally assert that the President will not run but the odds are still heavily on that side.

6. If Mr. Eisenhower does not run, there is increasing support for the view that he will not attempt to "name" the candidate in the sense of seeking to impose by himself.

Mr. Eisenhower's own decision is still ahead of him.

The weight of circumstance will be heavily on the side of not running and for two reasons, according to those who know the President intimately.

Even though the medical prognosis might be uniformly favorable, Mr. Eisenhower would have to be satisfied within himself that he would have a normal prospect of serving out his second term.

He doesn't want to be a party to allowing the voters to elect a sick President—and he would have to feel physically confident if he were to permit himself to run.

Democrats Cautious But Also Hopeful

WASHINGTON — The story of Tuesday's widely scattered elections is simply: "More of the same." That is, the significant Democratic victories over a wide terrain—in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Indiana, Kentucky, Connecticut, New York—continued sweeping the trend back to the Democratic Party that began early in the Eisenhower administration nearly three years ago.

It has been exhibited since in special congressional elections and in off-year elections, with the most far-reaching and solid triumph being the recapture of Congress in the 1954 elections.

The movement appears to be picking up momentum. It prompts Democrats to ask themselves once again this question:

How can we win all the battles and lose the war? That is, win all the elections in between and lose the presidency in 1956.

Hitherto there have been two factors to stir doubts about 1956. One was President Eisenhower's continuing popularity. Democrats were afraid that, despite all the signs favoring them in off-year and special elections, the President might be able to win on his own and retain the White House for the GOP, even if the party lost Congress.

But with President Eisenhower probably out as a candidate for re-election, Democrats are looking at Tuesday's results with new perspective.

They are becoming convinced, too, that the President's magic works only if he himself is the candidate, that he can no more transfer his own popularity to others than could the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. That was demonstrated in last year's

AIM Rates Atlanta in Big 4 Cities

By MARJORY SMITH
Atlanta is one of the nation's "big four" cities by American Institute of Management standards. Atlanta, San Francisco, Louisville and Dayton are the highest-ranking cities in over-all management in the country, Dr. Jackson Martindell, AIM president, declared here Thursday night.

Cities were rated on a basis of 10 categories in an AIM study started in 1948. Dr. Martindell said. Categories included resources and facilities, development programs, production efficiency, fiscal policies, organizational structure, "political atmosphere" and effectiveness of leadership.

LEADERS APPLAUDED

Atlanta rates "tops" in its business and civic leaders, the AIM leader reported.

Dr. Martindell, in Atlanta for the Southern Conference on Problems in Collegiate Education for Business, told educators representing 40 colleges and universities to broaden their concept of business education.

Within the next 10 years, he predicted, schools of business administration will be teaching "management problems in all areas of human endeavor." Too much stress has been placed on business alone, Dr. Martindell said.

He explained that business colleges and chambers of commerce in the future should "train and take in hospital administrators, college deans and presidents, religious association leaders, and other groups which are crying for good methods of administration."

CONCEPT CHANGES

Deans of colleges of business administration from all over the South agreed in workshop sessions here Thursday that the concept of business education has changed from "one of intense specialization to one of broad preparation."

Dr. Martindell said Southern colleges "are going places in the next decade and will grow in stature in eyes of the nation." He said many Eastern colleges are "smug" and do not yet realize the strides made by institutions of higher learning in this area.

Dr. Martindell predicted that within the next 10 years all publicly owned companies "will publish annual reports containing management audits as well as financial audits." He declared that "the public is beginning to demand good management."

AIM has compiled such "management audits" appraising management not only of big corporations but of colleges, hospitals, church groups, cities and industries, Dr. Martindell said. He said the first public management audit of a specific city would "probably be Columbia, S.C.," and said an Atlanta report "was planned for 1956."

Dr. Gillette WOTY Here

Dr. Harriett Gillette of Atlanta was named 1955 Medical Woman of the Year for her "insight and far-sighted approach to the needs of the cerebral palsied and the aged" by the Atlanta Branch, American Medical Women's Association.

Women physicians in the Greater Atlanta area comprise the Atlanta branch of the national organization. Dr. Vernelle Fox, branch president, said Dr. Gillette's medical clinic and her efforts to improve rehabilitation throughout Georgia are "greatly aiding" the cerebral palsied and the aged.

Dr. Gillette and 14 other women doctors from other areas will be cited at a luncheon in Cincinnati, Nov. 13.

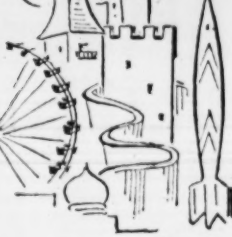

A graduate of Rush Medical College, Dr. Gillette has done general practice and specialized in pediatrics and physical medicine in Florida and Georgia. She lives at 90 Little John Trail, Northeast.

Fulton, Health District, To Get More State Aid

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

The Fulton County Health Board gave final approval Thursday to establishing the county as a health district under the state's 38-district health plan.

The board, which previously had approved the plan in principle but asked for further financial negotiations with the State Health Department, approved the plan after being told the department would receive approximately $254,000 in aid from the state under the district plan.

This means the department will get $34,000 more money from the state than it is now receiving. The department this year will receive about $220,000 in state aid.

Further financial negotiations were requested by the board previously when the body was told it would get only about $230,000 from the state under the program.

TO EXPAND PROGRAM

The district plan will do away with county health departments in the state and set up 38 districts. It will pave the way for expansion of the county's health program when the plan goes into effect, Jan. 1, health officials said.

Deputy Health Commissioner James F. Hackney said it will allow the county to "keep abreast of population increases."

Dr. Roy W. McGee, county health commissioner, will become district health commissioner. Other present county health officials also will become district officials.

In addition, the program provides for appointment of a public health administrator to handle business matters. Need for such a position was indicated in a recent survey of the Health Department but the position was never created. Dr. Hackney pointed out.

HOURS UNCHANGED

In another action the board turned down a proposal which would result in the closing of the county's central health center at 210 Central Ave., SW, on Saturdays. Health employees had requested the change in asking a five-day week.

The center, like other city and county offices, is now open five and one-half days weekly, with a reduced staff manning the office on Saturdays.

Mayor William B. Hartsfield, a Health Board member, opposed the change on the basis it would disturb the uniformity of municipal office hours and deny some citizens the opportunity of visiting the center during their only free day.

The Health Board also directed department officials to seek the establishment of new salary ranges for public health physicians after Dr. Hackney reported he had been unable to fill two departmental vacancies because of low salary scales.

Memphis History Meet To Hear Emory's Wiley

Dr. Bell I. Wiley, Emory University history professor and president of the Southern Historical Assn., will give the presidential address at the annual dinner meeting of the association Friday in Memphis, Tenn. Also on the program is Dr. Ross McLean, professor of history from Emory, who will preside at a panel discussion on European history.

State Drops Mass X-Ray Tests for TB

The State Health Department next year will discontinue mass tuberculosis X-ray services by mobile units in favor of a new and selective system.

The new system will concentrate on individuals that have been exposed to or have had symptoms of tuberculosis.

STARTS IN JANUARY

Dr. H. C. Schenck, director of tuberculosis control for the Health Department, announced Thursday the change effective next January. He said the new system will offer X-ray service to persons most likely to have tuberculosis who are not being X-rayed in regular county health clinics.

Mobile units have been visiting schools and industries for mass X-ray surveys. However, Dr. Schenck said, it was found that twice as many cases were discovered in X-rays of the general public than in those of industrial workers, and nearly seven times as many in school and college groups.

MORE SELECTIVE

Because the new plan is more selective, it is expected to locate more cases of tuberculosis than the old system, he added.

County health departments will schedule visits of the state's three mobile units through the regional health departments. These persons will be used to have X-rays: (1) Those who have a cough of long duration, repeated influenza attacks, pneumonia, bronchitis, fever and prolonged sweats, other signs of chest disease or unexplained ill health; (2) those who have had contact with cases of tuberculosis; and (3) those who have taken the tuberculin test and have reacted to it.

Miss Battey, a writer and artist, is known here for her thoughtful acts. Friends exclaim over her unique packages for children and invalids and the "treasure boxes" she concocts for a small niece in England. The Atlanta, known to children in her neighborhood as "The Golden Lady," said she "took up year-around giving as a hobby years ago as one individual's protest against selfishness."

DEKALB COMMISSIONER Wheat Williams, currently embroiled in political undercurrents of his county's new multiple commissioner bill, received an invitation to participate in a local citizens group conference on the Middle East crisis. Telegram of invitation pointed out that this critical situation "calls for immediate mobilization of opinion on behalf of peace."

Commissioner Williams' return wire began, "War in DeKalb County still on, but will be delighted to cooperate in attempting to settle war in Middle East. . . ."

200-Acre Site For Hapeville Mart Studied

The State Farmers Market Authority is considering purchase of 200 acres of land instead of 100 acres near Hapeville as site for a big new market.

The authority had decided to buy 100 acres located between the four-lane U.S. Highway 41 and the old U.S. 41 from the Central of Georgia Railroad.

However, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. said at a meeting of the authority Thursday that the 100-acre site has not frontage on either highway.

Commenting that the state would be buying "back-yard property," Thrasher suggested the state consider buying all of a 200-acre tract on which the 100-acre site is located in order to get frontage on both highways.

Gov. Griffin, who is a member of the authority with Thrasher, moved that the chairman, Commissioner of Agriculture Campbell, investigate the cost of buying the entire 200-acre tract.

The site already has been approved by a joint Senate-House agriculture committee, and the railroad has offered to sell its land for $2,017 per acre.

Plan To Close Swamp Park Is Protested

Rep. Downing Musgrove of Clinch County has strongly protested a proposal that the state abandon a recently acquired park—the Stephen Foster Park—in the Okefenokee Swamp.

State Parks Director Roy Chalker told the legislative economy committee last week that the park should be abandoned because it hasn't attracted tourists and is in a remote and inaccessible location.

Musgrove wrote to Gov. Griffin Thursday, asking the governor to ask Chalker to abandon his move to get rid of the park.

The Clinch legislator said Chalker should join in bringing about necessary and long-range improvements to the park so that Georgians and tourists from throughout the nation may be given access to the swamp's "wonderland."

The state acquired the park under a 1953 legislative act that authorized expenditure of $27,000 to acquire the property.

State Goes To Florida To Buy Tar

The State of Georgia has bought $60,798 worth of tar this year from the Tar Products Co. of Tampa, Fla., records of the Purchasing Department disclosed Thursday.

Tar has been used instead of cheaper asphalt in some road construction and maintenance jobs, a legislative economy committee was told Wednesday. It also was told the State Highway Department had bought 300,000 gallons of tar this year from Wade Mallard of the Southeastern Bituminous Co. at Augusta.

ASPHALT RECOMMENDED

Richard Felts, the committee's investigating expert, recommended asphalt be used in place of tar because asphalt is cheaper.

Purchasing Department records showed Thursday that all requisitions for tar purchases from the Tampa concern were signed by Highway Chairman W. A. Blasingame and that one also was signed by board member John Quillian.

INSTRUCTED TO BUY

Charlie Leftwich, highway maintenance engineer, told the legislative committee Wednesday that he was instructed by a board member to requisition the tar bought from Wade Mallard. Leftwich said the price paid was 19 cents a gallon. Sen. Everett Millican said asphalt that would do the same work could be bought for 9½ cents a gallon.

One highway official, who declined to be quoted by name, Thursday defended the use of tar on some road jobs. He said tar goes further than asphalt. He added that occasional purchases of tar instead of asphalt tend to keep asphalt prices down.

Brookwood Project Bid Is $19,197

J. E. Moses and Son submitted the apparent low bid on landscaping a portion of the Atlanta Expressway as the State Highway Department received bids Thursday on $2,183,738 worth of road work.

The bid for beautifying the expressway near the Brookwood station was $19,197.

The apparent low bids on 13 projects over the state ran less than estimates. Engineers had estimated a total cost of $2,380,000, while the bids ran $2,123,738.

$250,000 Gift Is Made to Westminster

A $250,000 contingent gift has been given to the Westminster schools by an anonymous foundation, Dr. William L. Pressly, Westminster president, said Thursday.

The donor stipulated that $200,000 of the gift be designated as a permanent endowment of scholarships, payable on or before July 1, 1957, in installments of $50,000 for every additional $25,000 raised by Westminster.

Under terms of the grant, the remaining $50,000 of the gift is for endowment or other capital use and may be claimed on or before July 1, 1957, provided Westminster raises $150,000.

Dr. Pressly said there will be no immediate campaign for matching funds. A campaign in 1951 brought the schools over $875,000; another fund drive last year netted Westminster almost $450,000. Both campaigns were initiated in order to claim large conditional gifts.

Dade Sheriff Injured Gravely in Car Crash

Dade County Sheriff F. C. Graham, making a trip which ironically turned out to be unnecessary, was injured critically Thursday in a traffic accident.

Graham's car sideswiped a telephone pole alongside U.S. Highway 11 near Trenton. He underwent emergency surgery at a Chattanooga hospital where it was reported he suffered fractures of the skull and right shoulder.

The sheriff was en route to Chattanooga where he was to meet a deputy sheriff from Rome. The two were going to Ohio to return Paul Crane to Georgia to face murder charges.

But Crane refused to waive extradition Thursday.

The U.S. Marshal's office at Columbus, Ohio, advised Floyd Sheriff Joe Adams of Crane's refusal shortly before noon Thursday.

Crane, and his brother, Clyde, 30, were awaiting trial on murder charges when they broke out of the Floyd jail along with two others—Lindsey Branton, 23, and Charles L. Turner, 42.

Paul Crane, 39, was captured Tuesday at Worthington, Ohio. His brother was captured last week in Chattanooga.

The Crane brothers were charged with the murder of 80-year-old Junius Nisbet in October, 1951. The old man had been beaten and tortured in an effort to force him to reveal where he had hidden money and valuables.

Several hundred messengers, representing almost every Baptist congregation in Georgia, are expected to attend.

Foundation's Tax Aids Hit By Talmadge

Special to The Constitution
JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 10—Governor Talmadge of Georgia Thursday called for immediate removal of all tax exemptions and concessions from all foundations and organizations except those of exclusively charitable nature and non-controversial activity.

Addressing the annual national affairs forum of the Mississippi Economic Council, Talmadge declared that businessmen, through permitting the unopposed emergence of tax-exempt foundations financed by business profits and dominated by enemies of the American form of government and free enterprise system, are "literally subsidizing their own doom."

"It is alarming when the profits from great industrial empires built through the energy and imagination of staunch advocates of free enterprise can be channeled into tax-exempt foundations operated by persons bent not only upon destroying our economic system but also of eliminating the last vestige of states' and individual rights in this nation," Talmadge elaborated.

"It is shocking when radical organizations bent upon destroying the social structure of this country can spend tax-free millions with government sanction and protection while patriotic groups of citizens dedicated to the preservation of our fundamental freedoms and way of life not only are denied tax exemption but actually are insulted and intimidated by agencies of the federal government."

350 Contractors Open Convention Of State Builders

More than 350 contractors are expected to attend a charter session opening the Georgia Home Builders Association's first annual convention here at 10 a.m. Friday at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

The three-day convention will get underway as E. A. Baylis, association president, receives a charter affiliating the organization with the National Assn. of Home Builders. Jack Beatty of Miami, Fla., regional vice president, will make the presentation.

Keynoting the meeting will be an address by Joseph B. Haverstick of Dayton, Ohio, first vice president of the national association. Haverstick will discuss "The Outlook for the Home Builder in 1956" at a 12:30 p.m. luncheon. Convention chairman Fred G. Fett Jr., of Atlanta, will preside.

Also appearing on the convention program will be: Jerry Madigan, Washington, D.C.; T. Z. Standard, Macon; Lewis Coker, Atlanta; Clayton Powell, Savannah; John F. Thigpen, state FHA director, and Harry C. Bennett, VA loan guarantee officer.

FDR's Physician Says All Efforts To Rush Ike's Decision 'Unseemly'

Dr. Ross T. McIntire, former White House physician, said here Thursday he considered it improper to speculate on whether President Eisenhower will run again.

Dr. McIntire, who served as personal physician to President Franklin D. Roosevelt for 12 years, termed efforts by politicians to "shove" President Eisenhower into a decision "unseemly."

He remarked: "I'm sure he (Eisenhower) has been getting the best of advice from his doctors and when the time comes for him to decide, he'll make up his own mind on the matter."

In Atlanta for informal conferences with members of the Georgia Chapter, International College of Surgeons, Dr. McIntire said objective of his trip is to find ways to interest young surgeons from other countries in taking postgraduate courses in America. Dr. McIntire is executive director of the International College.

City Golf Course Leases Suggested by Alderman

Lease of city-owned golf courses was suggested Thursday in the wake of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that they must be opened to Negroes.

Seventh Ward Ald. Milton Farris, a member of the aldermanic board's parks committee and a lawyer, said he believes the plan would be entirely legal.

He proposed it be approached on the same basis on which the city leases concessions in parks, for a percentage of receipts. Farris pointed out that the city maintains and operates the buildings and pays all other incidental operational expenses and expressed the opinion similar leases of golf courses would be a "complete answer" to the golf issue. He pointed out that Lakewood Park is leased to the Southeastern Fair Assn. Although Farris proposed leases as the principal alternative to admitting Negroes to the seven municipal courses, he also considered the possibility of abandoning and selling golf courses. City leaders generally agreed that the present ruling appears to affect golf only. If the city abandoned its parks, it was pointed out that Grant Park, one of the city's largest and finest facilities, would revert to heirs of former owners since it was deeded on condition that it be used as a park. Some other smaller parks are in the same category.

Mayor Hartsfield said the final decision on what is to be done will be made by the aldermanic board. Farris also pointed out that the city had planned to build a modern Negro golf course before the suit for use of present courses was filed, but it was then abandoned.

U.S. MARINE CORPS' 180TH BIRTHDAY CAKE SLICED
By Col. John F. Hough and Sandra May

Marines' Birthday Here Sees Cake and Queens

By DAN COGGIN

U.S. Marines from the Greater Atlanta Area honored the 180th anniversary of the Corps with a mammoth celebration here Thursday night.

Leathernecks from all Atlanta Reserve units, the Volunteer Training unit, Sixth District Headquarters and the Marine Corps Recruiting Station gathered at the American Legion Club in Avondale to pay tribute and to begin another year of Marine Corps history.

Highlight of the gala celebration was the cutting of an elaborate eight-tier cake in the traditional Marine Corps manner by Col. John F. Hough, director of the Sixth Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment District.

STAND RIGIDLY

While every Leatherneck stood rigidly at attention and the band played the Marine Corps Hymn, Col. Hough read birthday messages from the Commandant of the Marine Corps and Commander of the Sixth Naval District.

After Col. Hough sliced the first piece, the cake was cut and passed around as everyone joined in several resounding choruses of the Marine Corps Hymn.

As all stood at attention singing their hymn, there was an air of pride and loyalty. Tears rolled down the cheeks of some of the veteran Marines, their chests bedecked with campaign ribbons, and lips moving in prayer were evident amidst the spirited singing.

TOYS-FOR-TOTS' DRIVE

Following the cake-cutting ceremony, Sandra May, the Marines' "Miss Toys-for-Tots of 1953," was crowned.

Miss May, a 17-year-old Sylvan High student who resides at 1650 Sylvan Rd., SW, is this year's symbol of the Marines' drive to gather toys for less fortunate children in the Atlanta area.

Earlier in the evening, Jeanne Parrish, "Miss Georgia of 1953," gave a kiss to M. Sgt. Owen Manning of Sixth District Headquarters. His 23 years of active service is the longest of any Marine in the district.

2 Fugitives Held Here for Missouri Pen

Two Missouri State Prison escapees, arrested Monday night by Fairburn police on suspicion and later identified, were ordered held for extradition Thursday by Fulton Superior Judge George P. Whitman Sr.

The pair, Albert Green, 39, and Ralph Banes, 53, refused to waive extradition. They escaped from prison during September, police said. Green was serving time for a forgery conviction while Banes was serving a sentence for a first degree robbery conviction, police said.

Fairburn Police Chief W. H. Crawford said Fairburn officers arrested the pair Monday night when Green was noticed going into an alley. Arrested and found with a crowbar under his coat, Green identified himself, Crawford said.

Green told them he had a friend with him from Arizona. Officers found Bane hiding in the floorboard of a 1951 model car bearing Arizona license plates, police said. In the car officers found a .32 caliber revolver and a satchel of burglary tools, police said.

The two are being held in Fulton County jail until Missouri authorities arrive with extradition papers.

4 Charged In 'Hellcat' Gang Theft

Four members of the "Hellcat Gang" were named Thursday in warrants obtained by DeKalb County police charging a holdup in which the victim was frightened into saying Negroes staged the robbery.

The latest arrests brought to 19 the number of other than juveniles taken into custody since GBI Sgt. W. P. Holley, DeKalb police and Atlanta officers began an investigation into what they described as a sordid adventure into robbery, burglary and sex.

Several youths under 17 years of age were turned over to juvenile authorities in Fulton and DeKalb counties. (The names of accused persons under 17 are withheld in accordance with the Georgia juvenile court law.)

DeKalb Detectives Ira J. Debolt and B. F. Corley said they obtained warrants charging armed robbery against Robert Lawrence (Bobby) Williams, 19, of a Windsor street, SW, address; Betty Emerson, 17, of a Pryor street, SW, address; Gordon Shaw, 19, of a Washington street, SW, address, and a 16-year-old girl.

The four are charged with the Sept. 30 knife robbery of the Thoni Service Station on Highway 42, near the south Atlanta city limits, the detectives said.

Matthew Hilliard, an employee of the service station, at first said he had been robbed by Negroes, the detectives said. They said gang members forced Hilliard at knife point into an automobile, took his money and drove him to Pulliam and Glenn streets, SW.

Hilliard was instructed to say he had been robbed by Negroes and left with the warning, "If you don't, we'll be back and get you," the detectives said.

The detectives said the gang leader, as yet not identified by police, threatened other members and called them "cluckin'" because they were reluctant to assist in a robbery at a service station at Stewart avenue and Whitehall street, SW, the same night.

Williams currently is in Fulton Tower under a two-year sentence on charges of burglary. Shaw and the 16-year-old girl were being held at the DeKalb jail and Miss Emerson is being held at the Atlanta jail.

Appraisals Here Reach A Record $747 Million

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Taxable values in Atlanta reached an alltime high of $747,393,938 Thursday, $23,961,398 more than the $723,432,540 listed for 1954.

City Comptroller Earl Landers released figures furnished by the Joint Board of Atlanta-Fulton County Assessors. He said that although the figure is subject to change for the remainder of the year, no substantial change is anticipated. The 1954 figure is for the entire year of 1954.

The gross digest is for public utilities, and personal and real property in the Fulton and DeKalb portions of the city. Real estate accounts for $170,587,149 of the 1955 total, with personal property listed at $276,806,789.

Sanitary taxes doubled for 1955, are expected to reach $2,330,314 for the year compared to $1,127,129 for 1954. Homestead exemptions for 1955 amount to $100,605,175, leaving a net digest of $646,788,763.

The 26½-mill city tax rate is levied as follows:

An 8½-mill tax for schools (this was upped from 7 mills) and a 3-mill debt service levied on the gross digest; and a 14½-mill levy for general city operations plus a half-mill levy for parks improvements against the net digest.

School Painting Bids

Contracts for painting the interior of 23 Atlanta schools are expected to be awarded at a meeting of the Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Bids were opened on the work Thursday, but schools officials said they must be tabulated before low bidders can be determined. There were 14 bidders. The board had set up Election of the three Georgia board members was announced at the 27th annual meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in New York City.

Harvey Firestone Jr. accepted the national chairmanship of "Brotherhood Week" Feb. 19-26.

Re-elected as national co-chairmen of the conference were: Benjamin F. Fairless, James F. Twohy and Roger W. Straus, Jr. Everett Ross Clinchy was re-elected president, and William H. Tipton Jr. of the District of Columbia, Southeastern vice president.

Fiscal Study Pressed

Dr. Alfred Buehler, surveying Atlanta's income and fiscal needs, Thursday began a study of schools financial problems. He interviewed school officials and started school studies which he expects to incorporate in his overall recommendations expected Jan. 1. The studies are sponsored jointly by the city and the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to ascertain the city's fiscal needs to meet demands for increased services.

Anti-Diabetes Drive Slated Next Week

The Diabetes Assn. of Atlanta will sponsor Diabetes Week Nov. 13-19 to emphasize the importance of detection and treatment of the disease.

Sponsored nationally by the American Diabetes Assn., the Diabetes detection drive is for the purpose of finding an estimated 1,000,000 diabetics who are not aware of their illness.

Atlanta doctors said if diabetics are discovered early they may receive proper medical treatment and avoid the serious or even fatal complications that result from neglect.

They said they hoped everybody would see his or her private physician for a test for diabetes during Diabetes Week. Dr. Raymond Arp is president of the Diabetes Assn. of Atlanta, and Dr. Harvey Hamff is chairman of the board of directors. Other directors include: Dr. Luther Byrd, Dr. Christopher McLoughlin, Dr. Harold Ferris (secretary-treasurer), Dr. E. Van Buren, Dr. L. M. Petrie, Dr. Eugene Jones, Dr. William Paulin, Clark Howell Jr., John Dunaway and C. K. Kennedy.

The Atlanta association also has a society of lay members to acquire and disseminate information about diabetes. Those interested in joining should write: "Diabetes, P. O. Box 300, Atlanta."

Saved From Fire, Woman Spared Drinking Fine

A woman rescued from a burning house at 286 Logan St., SE, appeared in Municipal Court Thursday and was fined $15, suspended on an intoxication charge.

Patrolmen V. L. Lindsey and G. R. Meadows told Judge James Webb the woman, Mrs. Betty Lou Braswell, was found lying beside a flaming couch in the living room. A roomer, Wilbur Bruce, 23, carried Mrs. Braswell to safety, officers said, and warned other residents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powell carried their two small children to safety.

Mrs. Braswell was treated at Grady Hospital for burns about the arms and legs before being booked on the drinking case, officers said. The fire severely damaged the building and scorched the outside of a neighboring house at 288 Logan St., occupied by Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Fincher.

Mayo Speaker Cites Abuse As Larynx Cancer Cause

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

All forms of throat irritations should be avoided as a precaution against developing cancer of the larynx, a senior consultant at the Mayo Clinic warned here Thursday night.

Dr. Frederick A. Figi of Rochester, Minn., who gave the annual Jonte Eguen Memorial Lecture at the Academy of Medicine, said the occurrence of cancer of the larynx in heavy smokers is "not uncommon."

Dr. Figi said in an interview that excessive smoking, abuse of the voice and the drinking of undiluted alcohol should be "guarded against."

CASE HISTORIES

He reported that case histories of many patients with cancer of the larynx show they have had a habit of drinking "a shot of straight whiskey." He noted that straight whiskey irritates the throat more than whiskey diluted with water or other liquid.

Dr. Figi said cancer of the larynx is 10 times more common in men than in women. He said most of the patients are between 40 and 70 years of age—but some in their teens and twenties.

The commonest complaint of patients who develop cancers of the larynx on the vocal cords, Dr. Figi said, is persistent hoarseness. He said hoarseness, particularly in men, should be "viewed with particular suspicion."

EXPLAINS GROWTHS

From the standpoint of curability, Dr. Figi said, the larynx or "voice box" is the most favorable site for the development of cancer of the larynx. He explained that growths in other parts of the throat are prone to extend into the glands of the neck "rather promptly."

Dr. Figi said surgery is by far the best method of treating cancer of the larynx. When the surgery is done in the early stages of the disease, he said, there's more than 80 per cent chance of cure without disturbance of the voice.

If surgery is delayed until the growth is well advanced, removal of the entire larynx may be necessary to save the patient's life, Dr. Figi pointed out. While this operation offers a 60 per cent prospect of cure, it does "leave the patient without his normal voice and he must breathe through an opening in the front of the neck."

NEW OPERATION

Dr. Figi said a relatively new operation for partial removal of the larynx offers hope to "patients with moderately advanced cancer." This allows the patients to speak and breathe by normal means. A patient whose entire larynx is removed must learn to speak with his esophagus or pharynx, Dr. Figi pointed out.

Dr. Figi, former head of the Section of Plastic Surgery and Laryngology at Mayo, is past president of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery and past president of the Colon, Mich., is known as the magic capital of the world because a large part of magicians' equipment is manufactured there.

Wife Shot, East Point Man Held

A 26-year-old packing house truck driver Thursday was held by East Point police in connection with pistol shot injuries to his wife.

Mrs. Katie Lee Trussell, 43, of 106 North Randall St., East Point, was admitted to Crawford W. Long Hospital in "fair" condition with bullet wounds in the chest and arm, East Point Police Chief W. H. Tyler said.

Trussell's husband, Charles Joseph Trussell Jr., was held for suspicion of assault with intent to murder pending the outcome of his wife's condition.

The Trussells had separated recently, the chief said, and Mrs. Trussell returned home to attempt a reconciliation.

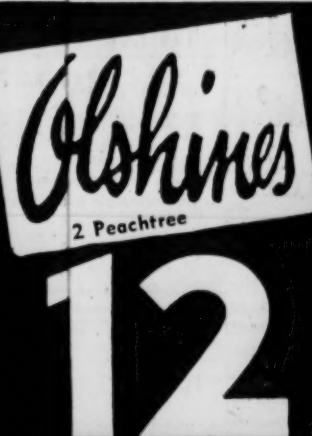

Trussell was quoted as saying the pistol, a .38 caliber, was fired accidentally.

Atlanta officers gave chase to a car early Thursday on Lee street, SW, but were unable to overtake the machine before it reached Grady Hospital. They said Trussell, the driver, explained his wife had been injured and he was rushing her to the hospital.

After emergency treatment at Grady, Mrs. Trussell was transferred to the private hospital.

Big 4 Fail To Expand Free Flow

Geneva Falters On Easiest Issue

By ELJE ABEL

GENEVA, Nov. 10—Efforts to find some common ground on East-West contacts, the least controversial issue before the foreign ministers conference, collapsed today.

Four-power working groups set up Oct. 31 to recommend measures for removing barriers to the flow of trade, people and ideas were unable to agree even on a basis for a joint report to the foreign ministers. Each delegation, as a result, filed a separate report with its own foreign minister.

HOPED FOR ACCORD

Failure of this effort to reconcile contradictory positions of the Western powers and the Soviet Union was a deep disappointment to the U.S. delegation, which hoped for some small measure of agreement on this issue to offset the stalemate over German unification and the unpromising outlook on disarmament.

The U.S. team of experts, headed by William H. Jackson, was under instructions to pursue every opportunity for broader contacts despite the expected rigidity of the Russians.

WORSE THAN EXPECTED

The Soviet team, however, proved more rigid than expected. Responsible Western sources said Serge A. Vinogradov, Soviet ambassador to Paris, and his aides showed interest only in two points—technological information from the West and the end of Western restrictions on trade with Communist countries.

The gulf between Western and Soviet ideas on contacts became obvious as soon as memoranda on both sides were tabled. The United States, Britain and France in effect proposed that the Russians break the Communist Party's exclusive hold on all communication with the Russian people.

ASSAIL CENSORSHIP

They called for abolition of censorship and of jamming foreign broadcasts, opening of foreign information centers in the Soviet Union, increase in private tourism through establishment of a realistic exchange rate for the ruble, and reciprocal air transport rights between the Soviet Union and western cities.

Foreign Minister Molotov countered with a set of his own proposals calling for elimination of Western curbs on shipment of strategic materials to the Soviet Union as well as the end of the Chinese Nationalist blockade in the Formosa strait.

6 AF Men Bail Out in Snowstorm

GALAX, Va., Nov. 10—Six men—four Air Force officers and two civilian employees of the Air Force—bailed out of their plane in a snowstorm high over the rugged Blue Ridge Mountains northwest of here today and all six landed safely without injury.

The plane, a C-45, crashed near the top of a snow-covered peak after developing engine trouble.

Other Air Force personnel aboard were Maj. Norman R. Snyder, 1st Lt. Dale W. Parrish and 1st Lt. Lauris T. Jones. The civilian Air Force employees were Frank H. Lafferty and Clayton S. Spear.

The plane was from Northern Field near Tullahoma, Tenn.

Crump's Lieutenants Fail As Overton Meets Defeat

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10—In the first "free" election here in nearly 30 years, political amateur Edmund Orgill tonight beat the "old pro," S. Watkins Overton, in the race for the mayor's seat.

Overton, a former mayor with a total of 14 years at the job, conceded two and a half hours after the polls closed.

With 97 of 129 precincts reported, Orgill had 36,473 votes to 23,671 for Overton. Two other candidates, Dr. J. B. Smith, an optometrist, and Ben L. Colby, a farmer, trailed far behind.

The hotly contested election was the first in the memory of most voters that had not been dominated by the late E. H. Crump. Crump died last year, and his smooth political machine did not long survive him. Most of Crump's former top lieutenants supported Overton.

In the race for the four City Commission seats, the leaders included two men up for reelection—Claude A. Armour (26,359) and John Dwyer (23,162)—and two "new faces," Henry Loeb (25,625) and Stanley Dillard (15,961).

Loeb, a wealthy laundry executive, ran as an "independent." Dillard, former city personnel director, was on the Overton ticket. Dwyer and Armour were elected under Crump.

The other two commissioners, also elected under the Crump flag, were trailing: Joe Boyle (13,234) and O. P. Williams (12,800).

The count for the others: H. K. Buck, 8,600; J. J. Thomson, 4,627; S. E. Chambers, 9,486; M. R. Futehy, 3,529; F. P. Carpenter, 2,041.

Mrs. Priest Gets Fine for Speeding On Western Trip

DENVER, Nov. 10—Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, said today she was caught for speeding Sunday while driving west across Nebraska.

"They stopped me and took me to the fire house where the justice of peace was all set up and waiting for his intended prey," she told a meeting of Colorado Republican Women's Clubs.

"He asked for my driver's license, studied it for a moment and asked, 'Are you the lady who signs all the money?'"

"I admitted I was. He turned to the others present and said, 'Well, boys, it looks like we hit the jackpot today.'"

Mrs. Priest did not disclose the town or the amount of the fine.

Striking UAW Voted Out At 3 Perfect Circle Plants

HAGERSTOWN, Ind., Nov. 10—Employees of Perfect Circle Corp. at the main plant here and two small plants at nearby Richmond ousted the CIO United Auto Workers in National Labor Relations Board elections today.

Almost 95 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots. The vote against the union was 2-1 here but closer at Richmond.

Perfect Circle is a major supplier of piston rings for the automotive industry.

The NLRB said the vote was 475 to 233 at Hagerstown, 138 to 96 at the Richmond machine plant and 45 to 35 at the Richmond sleeve casting plant.

In addition there were four ballots challenged at Hagerstown, four at the machine plant and 13 at the sleeve casting plant—all by the UAW.

The vote totals, compared to the eligible totals, were 712 of 752 at Hagerstown, 238 of 248 at the machine plant and 93 of 99 at the sleeve casting plant.

The UAW has been on strike at the three plants and at Perfect Circle's New Castle foundry since July 25. The foundry was not involved in the decertification action.

The foundry was the scene of a demonstration Oct. 5 in which eight strikers and nonstrikers were wounded by gunfire. Gov. George N. Craig called out the National Guard as a result of that riot and put the area under martial law for 10 days.

Plan To Integrate---Faulkner; Social Par Not Aim---Mays

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10—Famed novelist William Faulkner tonight said to be against equality of race or color nowadays "is like living in Alaska and being against snow."

Speaking before the Southern Historical Assn., Mississippi's Nobel Prize-winning writer said, "We have already got the snow; what we must do now is plan how to live with it."

"Live with it," he emphasized, "not just beside it, because the day when that would have been enough is past, too."

Faulkner, of Oxford, Miss., was among three panelists—one a Negro—discussing "The Segregation Decisions" at a banquet climaxing opening day of the three-day 21st annual meeting.

Cecil Sims of Nashville gave a "lawyer's view" of the issue. A "sociologist's" viewpoint was given by Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, a Negro institution.

The audience of about 600 included many Negroes—the first unsegregated banquet in the history of the swank Peabody Hotel. Weldon James, an editorial writer for the Louisville Courier-Journal, was moderator.

Dr. Mays told the crowd "it is false accusation" to say Negroes hail the recent Supreme Court decisions because "they want to mingle socially with white people."

"Negroes want segregation abolished because they want the legal stigma of inferiority removed. No Negro in his right mind believes his social status will be enhanced just because he associates with white people."

Faulkner said the urge of non-white peoples the world over to be free equals communism as a force in causing international tension. Urging confederation of free men, he added:

"And we had better take in with us as many as we can get of the non-white peoples of the earth who are not completely free yet, but who want to be and who intend to be, before that other force which is opposed to individual freedom, befools and gets them."

West's Sins Bred Communism— Love Can Defeat It, Toynbee Says

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—From a clear, high peak overlooking the world's history, Arnold J. Toynbee gazes down on the turbulent struggles of humanity, and sees signs man may be learning the great secret: humility before his Maker. "It may be," he said, "and again, it may not."

Associated Press Wirephoto
"MAN FROM OLYMPUS"
Historian Toynbee

OLYMPIAN EXPERIENCE

Talking with British historian Toynbee is like visiting with a man from Olympus, timeless and placeless, whose mind has roved the centuries, spanned the earth and noted the surging tides of humanity, its strivings and frustrations.

Through his words run a thread of urgency about man's purposes—that to flourish, he must get "outside himself," quit devoting himself to empty "human idols," and realize the only satisfying end is a "spiritual end."

"It is in placing himself in communion with God, in harmony with the nature of things, instead of hurrying himself against it," he said. "It's much like gaining bodily health, instead of being tangled up inside."

WORLD AT CROSSROADS

In his view, the 20th Century has brought the Western world to a crossroads, the fate of modern civilization depending on whether the West makes up for its moral lapses of the past—in a kind of selfless dedication to others.

"The motive is important," he said. "If the aim is for power or influence, it decreases the value of what is done. It must be done for its own sake—because it's the good and right thing to do."

To Toynbee, some of the most promising impulses of present-day Western society arose from the fires of recent wars, dictators, oppression and from the dark challenge of communism, and the atomic bomb.

WEST'S FAULT

"We seem to learn only by pain and suffering," he said. "It would, of course, be better if we could learn without it, but in practice we have to go through it before we take seriously what is essentially right."

It was largely because the West backslid in its Christianity and failed to uphold Christian teachings, he said, that communism shows a mass-type of religious fervor.

"All societies are a bit inhuman," he said, "but the more personal and human they are, the better."

The freedom concepts of the West, he said, derive from religious teachings about the importance of each human soul in God's sight. It is on this basis, that the idea of human rights arose.

"Belief in human rights and civil liberties have been rather superficial in recent times," he said. "I don't believe they will survive unless they are replaced on their religious foundations."

But Toynbee sees evidence of a stir, born out of travail, in the free world's religious awareness, and says this "may be our salvation."

RELIGIOUS FLOWERING

A major flowering of religious values, he said, probably will not come in its present divided form, but will bring Western Christianity into recognizing its kinship with other great and equally valid religions.

Toynbee said the world's new atomic weapons also have given civilization a lesson by "changing the character of war so there can be no winner and no loser."

"I'm rather optimistic that mankind will not go to war under these conditions. For the first time it is not possible to win by fighting."

Laughed-At Girl's Death-Threat Idea Came From TV—Her Watching Is Restricted Now

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 10 (AP)—A 12-year-old Flint girl was forbidden today by court order to watch television, unless the program first has been approved by her family.

She also was forbidden to use the telephone without specific permission of her parents.

That's because she said she got the idea for threatening a schoolmate's life by telephone from watching television.

Probate Judge William Doran turned her over to her family today, ending a four-day stay in a juvenile detention home.

A caller threatened the life of John Baker Jr., 12, son of Municipal Judge John Baker, four times in telephone calls last Friday and Saturday. Once the caller demand-

U.S. Delays Visas of New Red Visitors

The New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — The State Department today beat a retreat on cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union, indicating that the Russians were forcing too hot a pace.

A "hold-for-consideration" classification was ordered for a new Soviet proposal to send to the United States a second group of agricultural experts.

RUSSIAN SUGGESTION

The Russian suggestion was not turned down outright. But the United States suggested that a more uniform and "orderly" procedure should be set up for such visits.

State Department aides frankly admitted that the Russians had grabbed the ball on the "cultural exchange" front, apparently because they knew just what they wanted whereas U.S. policy is still uncertain.

ASK VISAS

The situation was brought to a head when the Russians applied to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Nov. 2 for visas for a group of 10 Soviet specialists in hybrid seed production. The Soviet group wants to come to the United States and visit six or eight agricultural centers. Members want to consult with U.S. seed specialists and seed firms.

The Soviet group indicated it wanted to leave for the United States in 10 days.

The State Department revealed the Russians have been told that,

In general, there is no objection to work out with the Russians what to such visits but that the United States is described as an "orderly" process. States want to make them fully procedure for handling exchange of reciprocal. It also would like to delegations.

Illinois Gov. Stratton Urges Brownell Probe Death of Wolf-Whistle Boy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton today asked U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. to investigate the death of Emmett Till in the Mississippi "wolf-whistle" case.

Stratton wrote Brownell that Till, a Chicago youth, "was abducted and brutally murdered. It now appears that those responsible for this tragic crime are not being brought to justice."

He asked Brownell through the Justice Department to "investigate the violation of the rights of this Illinois citizen in another state."

A Leflore County, Miss., grand jury Wednesday refused to indict half-brothers J. W. Milam, 36, and Roy Bryant, 24, on charges of kidnapping the Till boy.

"Someone was guilty" of the boy's murder, Stratton told news- men, "and I have a responsibility as governor of Illinois to protect the rights of our citizens."

Price War On Crackers Grips State

Constitution State News Service
MACON, Nov. 10—A cracker price war that started here recently has spread into four other states.

The price battle on soda crackers was touched off when the Strietmann Biscuit Co., with headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, and a new plant at Macon, offered a price reduction in Georgia.

National Biscuit Co., with a plant in Atlanta, countered with a 10-cent cut, effective in all or part of five states, Florida, Georgia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio.

STRESSES SITUATION

K. P. Davis of Cincinnati, divisional sales manager for Nabisco, said, "We have a competitive situation which has caused a price reduction."

A spokesman for Strietmann said the Georgia skirmish stemmed from a "local situation."

Another spokesman for the company declined to define the "local situation," but he declared:

"We had no idea in the world of starting anything like this. We weren't trying to cut the prices. We put a low price on the crackers to introduce them to the market."

PLANT AT MACON

The Strietmann plant at Macon opened 18 months ago.

A spokesman for Nabisco in Atlanta declined to comment on the price battle, but Atlanta grocery stores were advertising Nabisco soda crackers for as low as 13½ cents a pound—half the regular retail price. Strietmann crackers were retailing for 15 cents a pound.

Women Outnumbered As Mental Patients

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—More men than women are admitted to mental hospitals in the United States, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. says. For 1951, the most recent year for which figures are available, the ratio was 95,000 men to 76,000 women admitted for the first time.

Veteran coach Harry Mehre analyzes the Bulldog-Tiger clash. Jack Jackson and Al Thomby give behind-the-scenes sidelights from the grandstands and locker rooms of the Tech-Alabama and Georgia-Auburn games respectively.

Ed Miles will be in Gainesville, Fla., to report on Florida and Tennessee. Larry Fox has a double assignment. He'll cover Tulane and Vanderbilt from New Orleans Saturday afternoon and LSU and Mississippi State from Baton Rouge Saturday night.

Bob Christian reports Duke and South Carolina from Columbia, and Jesse Outlar brings you Clemson and Maryland from Clemson.

Big Bertha and Tri-clops action photos show you close-ups of important plays, while diagram shots highlight disputed plays.

For COMPLETE coverage in words and pictures of all the big football games in the SEC and throughout the country, look to the Sunday Atlanta Journal and Constitution.

Medics Offer Free Service To Poor If Hospitals Paid

AMERICUS, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Medical Association of Georgia today offered to give free medical care to persons who can't pay for it themselves, provided the state and counties finance their hospital bills.

President H. Dawson Allen of Milledgeville said "the medical profession has always realized its responsibility in providing free care for indigent persons, but at the present time there is no adequate program for the hospital care of these unfortunate people."

Dr. Allen made the statement in a speech to the Third District Medical Society in Americus.

He said "we would be glad to cooperate with other interested groups to work out a solution to this critical problem in Georgia."

He said successful programs have been worked out in Florida, Tennessee, and North and South Carolina for the hospital care of persons who are unable to pay the cost of hospital care and treatment.

Dr. Allen said "the problem is a complex one and probably would require considerable study."

Dr. J. L. Gallimore of Perry, of Atlanta is freshman treasurer.

North Atlanta's Mayor Is Out Of Jan. 2 Race

North Atlanta Mayor J. L. Spencer has announced he will not be a candidate for reelection in the Jan. 2 election.

Spencer's announcement came at a meeting of the City Council in connection with the opening of nominations for seven city elective posts.

The mayor was elevated to his post last June upon the resignation of J. Whitney Bunting.

The council has set the period from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15 for registration of voters. The deadline for candidate qualifications is Dec. 15.

Job Open, Apply Inside

Since Sept. 5 the Atlanta Crackers have been without a manager, so to speak. On the record you might say Clyde King ranks as the incumbent, for he has not been fired. Neither has he been hired. He just happens to be the last manager the Crackers had.

It's a situation sort of like a year ago, when the Crackers had a manager, and then they didn't. It was Whitlow Wyatt who couldn't make up his mind, then, not the Crackers.

If there appears to be a rather heavy air of mystery about the choice for 1956, it's because there is one. Nobody can be quite sure just what the plan is, or what it was as the season wound up. Earl Mann, who's conducting the hunt for a man to run his club out of seventh place into seventh heaven, made it public last summer that King was being hired only as George McQuinn's successor, not as a permanent manager.

That left the door open for another move if the season closed out on unsatisfactory terms. King did his job well enough to be retained on Mann's prospect list for the next season, but there was no obligation to march him into the office at Ponce de Leon Park, call the photographers and have him sign for another year.

Mann has used these weeks to do some shopping. He made a pass at Eddie Stanky, but Stanky found a way back into the New York Giants organization on the Minneapolis farm.

Mann has talked to other prospects, and then run down his list of applicants with an open mind.

"I'm surprised at the small number of applications I've had for the job," he said. "The year I signed Wyatt I had over 50 applications from all over the country. This year I haven't had but 15. I don't understand it. I don't think that many baseball men have started looking for other work."

—Les Burge Gets in the Line

It is further mystifying, for this is the year for a manager to look his best on the job. After a seventh-place finish there is only one way to move, and that's up. At least Mann isn't looking for the kind of manager who'll take him down the one last notch.

"You can say I'm considering Dick Bartell, Willard Marshall, Skeeter Newsome and most of the rest of the names on the list," Mann said. "I've had a new name since Jesse Outlar's story in The Constitution the other day. Les Burge applied. You know he held the Cracker home record of 38 until Bob Montag broke it. Les has had managerial experience. He managed Fort Worth out in the Texas League for Brooklyn. He's got a drive-in theater in North Carolina now. He'll be considered, too."

"Maybe a lot of prospective applicants figure that the job is King's. Maybe that's why the list is so low. But it's still wide open. I haven't made any decision and I can't say when I will. I think it is safe to say that in my mind I have narrowed the field down to five or six fellows. I think, too, that you can say we'll have a manager before the minor league meeting opens Nov. 28 in Columbus, Ohio. I'm not sure, but I think so."

Obviously Mann was not disturbed by the story that Pittsburgh has offered King a place in its reorganized franchise.

"I've told Clyde not to turn down any other good offer on account of this job," he said. "I know how Branch Rickey feels about him. If he should get a chance to go with the Pirates, I wouldn't blame him for taking it."

—A Battery Mate of Bragan's

It appears, then, that Mann isn't consulting King on his desired color scheme for the Cracker clubhouse next year. At the same time it appears that King isn't disregarding his own particular future. He would fit like an old shoe in Pittsburgh, where Bobby Bragan, battery mate on the '47 pennant Dodgers, is the new manager and Rickey is the master planner.

At the same time, King doesn't strike you as the kind of man who'll settle for a coach's job. He points at a managerial career. A pitching coach often is a man on detour from such an ambition. Keeping in mind such tradesmen as Frank Shellenback, Mel Harder, Dutch Leonard, Ted Lyons and fellow union members.

There is no hurry for a Cracker appointment. The football din has been so great as to drown out even the thought. Except when a Carrasquel and a Busby are dealt for a Doby, or when a Porterfield, a Vernon and other elderly men are swapped for a passel of Red Sox babies, baseball hasn't been able to get through to the reader.

The only hurry is to get a man on the job in time for the convention in Columbus.

"I've got enough problems to keep me busy without thinking about a manager," Mann said. "Did you know the price of bats and the price of tickets have gone up? You know how much we used to pay for tickets? Sixty cents per thousand. You know how much we pay now? Two dollars and 40 cents a thousand."

"All these baseball managers looking for jobs want security. If I'd been looking for security, I'd have been out of this business a long time ago. It's like Pierce Harris told me the other day. The only security nowadays is a life sentence to the Federal Penitentiary."

NW Drops Payseur From Post

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP)—Northwestern University today announced a reorganization plan for its athletic department in which Ted Payseur was dropped as athletic director and named an assistant business manager.

The plan was announced by President J. Roscoe Miller after consultation with the faculty athletic committee and with university administrative officers.

Dr. Miller said no successor to Payseur has been named but he will continue to serve as athletic director until the faculty athletic committee makes recommendations for a new director.

Dr. Miller reiterated that Northwestern will not pull out of the Big Ten conference as suggested last week in an editorial of the Daily Northwestern, a campus publication.

"Northwestern has no intention of withdrawing from the Big Ten in any sport in which we now compete," Miller said today. "The reorganization requires a new director of athletics who will be free to evolve a program consistent with membership in the Western conference. Responsibility as to all personnel in the athletic department will be in the hands of the new director."

The new plan places responsibility for certain aspects of the athletic plant, including promotion of athletic events, in the hands of the new assistant business manager. Payseur will supervise general promotion, advertising and ticket sales for athletic events. In this capacity he joins the administrative staff as assistant business manager, Miller said.

Bob Voigts was fired as football coach last year and was succeeded by Lou Saban who was given a one-year contract. Saban was considered a stopgap coach. Northwestern has lost all seven of its football games this year, including five in a row to conference opponents.

TECH'S STARTING HALFBACKS SHARPEN UP INSIDE GYM AFTER RAIN

Paul Rotenberry (L) Is After George Volkert, Who's About To Shoot

Tech's Left Half Solid for Alabama

Flowers May Be Ready For Relief Duty Saturday

By BERT PRATHER

Georgia Tech's left halfback position may be more strongly manned for the Alabama game in Birmingham Saturday than had been anticipated.

Regular holder of the position, Paul Rotenberry, who was sent to the sidelines in the LSU game, returned to action last week against Tennessee and has been assigned the starting role against the Tide. But big, speedy Stan Flowers, who filled in as starter in the Auburn, Florida State, Duke and Tennessee games, had some ribs bruised up by the Vols last Saturday in Knoxville and was not expected to play Saturday.

Now, trainer Buck Andel believes big Stan may be able to serve as reliever for Rotenberry Saturday. In the event Flowers mends properly, Tech will have all its left half horses ready for the first time in five games. Johnny Menger and Stan Cochran are other members of the corps.

Coach Bobby Dodd also announced that regular right guard Allen Ecker, who suffered an ankle injury in the Tennessee scrap, is showing rapid improvement and may be able to play some against the Tide. Don Miller has been named as starter for the game, however. Ecker, a standout all season, had been counted out Saturday.

Due to the cool, damp weather, the Jackets did most of their work indoors, moving to Grant Field for the final 25 minutes of the session.

Dodd is one person who is not taking the winless Crimson Tide lightly. He fears the Jackets may have a letdown and warns that they could be in for trouble. "Alabama has played several good first halves against foes this season. If they happen to put two of them together against us Saturday, it could mean trouble. Then, too, they will have most of their injured players ready for us," the Jacket head master allowed.

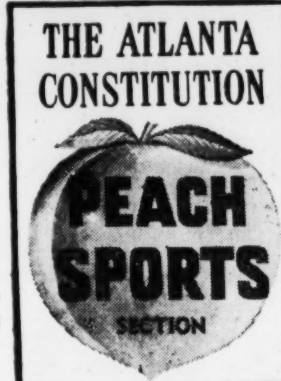

Setting a defense for Alabama has been more of a problem for Tech than was the Tennessee single wing. The Alabama offensive patterns have been changed in practically every game. In its last few games the Tide came up with spreads to go with the T and split T.

The Techs will take their usual light Friday workout at Grant Field about 3:30 p.m. and then board a night plane for Birmingham. They will return home immediately after the game.

Starting of Miller in place of the injured Ecker at right guard marks the first time this season that Dodd has had to alter his starting line because of an injury. There have been changes since the opening game, but none because of injuries.

The starters Saturday will be Don Ellis and Tommy Rose, ends; Carl Vereen and Ken Thrash, tackles; Franklin Brooks and Miller guards; Captain

Jimmy Morris, center; Wade Mitchell, quarterback; Rotenberry and George Volkert, half-

Tech, Georgia Likely To Play '56 Twin-Bill

Jackets, Vandy in Top Half; Bulldogs vs. 'Cats at Night

By LARRY FOX

Another football doubleheader for Atlanta fans is in the works for 1956, the Constitution has learned, and will probably be approved by the athletic boards involved around the first of the year.

The success of the season-opening twin bill here this season has prompted Georgia and Georgia Tech athletic officials to move toward a repeat performance, featuring in this case two other Southeastern Conference visitors.

The first games of this season matched Georgia Tech and Miami in the nationally televised afternoon affair and Georgia and Mississippi in the night engagement Sept. 17.

If the proposed football doubleheader for 1956 is approved, it will send Georgia Tech against Vanderbilt in the afternoon on Grant Field and Georgia against Kentucky at night. Date for the big weekend is Oct. 27.

One source close to the University of Georgia said that it, of course, would be up to the University Athletic Board to approve the double bill but that the success of the arrangement this season made its chances for acceptance good. The board will probably hold its next meeting in January.

In the initial double-header this year, the Georgia board at first voted against the shift to Atlanta.

However, when Tech's battle with Miami was named the TV game of the week, the action was reversed. Results proved pleasing to all parties.

Tech drew 39,500 for its televised tilt—nudging capacity—and Georgia drew 36,000 for the nightcap. The fine attendance was due mostly to the lure of the double-header with visitors coming from both Miami and Mississippi to see both games when they otherwise would have remained at home. Ticket sales for the Tech game had slowed considerably when the telecast was announced but both schools saw their ticket business balloon when the twin bill was scheduled.

Business sources here also estimated that the increase in interest and attendance was worth a quarter of a million dollars to Atlanta commerce and all hotels in this area were filled up weeks before the game.

Another factor in boosting chances for approval by the Georgia board, which often follows the wishes of the athletic staff, is the equitable treatment the Bulldogs received from Tech this year. Stadium rental was fixed at a minimum figure and the Grant Field staff went out of its way to help the Georgia people get things running at night.

Loss of the Kentucky game will leave Georgia with only three games in Athens, however, against Florida State, Mississippi State and Georgia Tech. At neutral sites, Georgia plays Auburn (in Columbus), Alabama (in Birmingham) and Florida (in Jacksonville). Road games are at Miami, North Carolina and Vanderbilt.

There is also a possibility that the Florida game may end up in Athens since Georgia's contract with the Gators has expired and will not be renewed unless changes are made in the financial arrangements. Even so, Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts may still hold out for a straight home-and-home arrangement.

Bulldog Rush Game Get Auburn Test

Two-Game, 270-Yard Mark
Could Give Tigers Trouble

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 11.—Georgia's newly developed rushing game, highly successful the past two tilts against Alabama and Florida, will undergo the acid test at Columbus Saturday when Bulldog ball carriers face Auburn, owner of the nation's fourth-best record in rushing defense.

The Bulldogs have netted 271 and 277 yards rushing in their last two outings, nearly three times as much as the Plainsmen have allowed their opposition per game (103.1 yards).

The Bulldogs themselves own a good rushing defense (second best in the SEC and 10th in the nation at 123.8 per game) and they also will be severely tested by Auburn's rushing offense of 238.3, which is pacing SEC ground troops.

Sooners Seek More Orange Bowl Tickets

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 10 (AP)—Oklahoma has appealed for more Orange Bowl football tickets but it's doubtful that the Sooners will get them.

Ernie Sells, Orange Bowl general manager, said Oklahoma, which will represent the Big Seven in the Jan. 2 game here, "is being besieged for tickets by its fans."

The only way Oklahoma could be given more tickets, Sells said, would be to divert some from the public sale planned in December. Last year, only 6,000 tickets were offered at the public sale and they were gobbled up in two hours.

The stadium capacity has been increased by 7,500 since last year to a total of 76,300.

Baby Jackets Battle South Carolina Frosh

Atlanta football fans, who are planning on taking in the big Georgia-Georgia Tech Scotty Rife freshman game here, can get a preview of the Baby Jackets Friday night. Coach John Robert Bell's fledgling Engineers are booked for an 8 p.m. date with the highly touted South Carolina Biddies, their second game of the season and first before home folks.

The Baby Jackets, who downed the Clemson frosh a few weeks ago, 26-13, are expecting quite a tussle from the young Gamecocks, who are unbeaten and have only a tie with Clemson blotting their record.

King Dixon, a sensational halfback from Laurens, S.C., who was sought by some 18 colleges before settling down at Columbia, is the big cog in the Biddie machine.

The Baby Jackets are not without their stars, either. Lester Simerville, speedy right halfback from Atlanta's Northside High, had quite a night against the Baby Tigers, as did Tim Singleton, the left halfback, who prepped at Druid Hills High. Both contributed long scoring runs against the Clemsons.

Floyd Faucette, Centerville, Ala., native, is a slick operating quarterback and will likely get the call from Coach Bell to direct the Jacket troops at the kickoff.

Probable South Carolina starters are Buddy Mayfield and Jim-

Costa Shoots For Title Shot

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Carmelo Costa, the No. 4 featherweight from Brooklyn, whipped Joey Lopes in March and is a 7-5 favorite to do it again tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Although Costa has marched forward steadily in 1953, hurdling all obstacles, he still is marking time in his campaign for a title shot at featherweight champion Sandy Saddler.

Because Costa lacks a kayo punch—he's knocked out only three men in 33 fights—there has been no great public demand that he be given a chance at the title.

HB Littleton Leads Pups Against Tide

Rugged Line

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 10—

Alabama and Georgia Freshmen clash in the final game of the year for the Baby Tide Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Tuscaloosa's Denny Stadium.

In one start Georgia has a 6-6 tie with Auburn. Alabama lost 14-13, to Mississippi State and 20-6 to Auburn.

Both squads are in good physical condition. Alabama has one man definitely out of the game. Right halfback Henry Hicks of Columbus, Ga., injured his knee against Mississippi State and missed the Auburn affair.

Left halfback Gene Littleton is the sparkplug of a Georgia team that is tabbed as the best to represent the Bulldogs in several years. The 175-pound Moultrie, Ga., native was selected the Most Valuable Player for his performance in the Georgia High School All-Star game last August. He played 50 minutes for the East team in the East-West All-American High School Game in Memphis, and played an important part in the East's victory.

Alabama's line will average 202 pounds to 201 for the Baby Bulldogs. In the backfield it will be a backfield that averages 186 for Bama and 178 for Georgia.

Probable line-ups:	Pos.	Georgia
Alabama (190)	1-2	Shelton (190)
Neighbors (220)	1-2	Dye (215)
Blacklock (155)	1-2	Cumard (180)

BASEBALL IN BRIEF

PCL Takes Over Frisco Club, Turns Down Milwaukee Offer

Compiled From Wire Services

The $200,000 price tag on the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast Baseball League was turned down tonight by Joe Cairnes, executive vice president of the Milwaukee Braves.

Cairnes did not make a counter offer in a 2½-hour meeting with PCL directors.

The conference and rejection followed announcement by the league president, Claire Goodwin, that the team's franchise had been forfeited.

Cairnes' rejection of the option to buy means that the PCL will have to operate the Seals next season unless another buyer moves into the picture.

Meanwhile, on the home front, the Braves announced that 9,405 season tickets have been sold, assuring the NL club of 638,350 cash customers.

Infielder Eddie Yost, a perennial Washington holdout, signed his 1956 contract, the first time since 1944 he has accepted terms this early. After signing Yost, Pres. Cal Griffith disclosed that he'll hold a trade confab with Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox in Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 28.

Outfielder Irv Noren left the touring New York Yankees in Tokyo Thursday on a deplane to home and a possible knee operation. Noren, hobbled by the knee in the World Series, probably will center Johns Hopkins Hospital for the operation.

New Manager Bobby Bragan is coming to Pittsburgh to help the Pirates in a promotional campaign. Bragan will speak at banquets and other parties around the circuit next week.

The Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce approved a campaign to sell 16,000 shares of stock at $10 a share to have the city's baseball franchise.

Manager Lou Boudreau of Kansas City scoffed at reports that the A's used a surveyor's telescope in the bull pen to steal signals from rivals last season.

The Philadelphia Phillies are taking off between 8 to 10 inches of Connie Mack Stadium turf to make room for 30 additional boxes, containing six deluxe seats.

Suber Leading SEC Linemen In Chase for AP All-America

D'Agostino, Brooks Draw
Support for Star Squad

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Linemen are coming in for more than ordinary attention in 1955 all-America football appraisals as the defense shows statistical signs of regaining some of the ground lost to offense in recent years.

Reports from Associated Press regional All-America boards give full credit to the forward wall for the performances of some of the nation's top ranked teams.

Singled out for special commendation are Bob Bolinger, guard on Oklahoma's No. 1 team; Bill Walker, end for No. 2 Maryland; Buck Nystrom, guard for No. 3 Michigan State; Hardiman

Cureton, guard for No. 4 UCLA; Jim Mense, center for No. 5 Notre Dame; Bruce Bosley, tackle for No. 6 West Virginia; Ron Kramer, end for No. 7 Michigan; Hugh Pitts, center for No. 8 Texas Christian; and Jim Parker, guard, for No. 10 Ohio State.

The Associated Press All-America team will be announced Dec. 2 after reports have been sifted from all regular season games.

In addition to the linemen on teams in AP's top ten, others who have attracted warm praise include Bill Meigs, Harvard, guard; John Jankans, Arizona State at Tempe, guard; John Witte, Oregon State, tackle; Jim Houston, Washington, end; and Scott Suber, Mississippi State, guard.

Eastern—Ralph Chasnaukas, Army, a first team All-America at guard last year has been playing end on Army's in-and-out team, and has looked good; Meigs is a real standout at Harvard; Phil Tarasovic, Yale tackle, was outstanding when Yale upset Army; Beagle, first team All-America end at Navy last year, appears close to 1954 form.

Atlantic Coast Conference—Walker, second team All-America end for Maryland last year, is having another great season; Sonny Sorrell, Duke, end, looks good as does Mike Sandusky, Maryland 240-pound tackle and Dick Maraziti, Clemson, another tackle who is a line blocker. Bob Pellegrini, Maryland, stands out at center.

Southern Conference—Bosley, the big West Virginia tackle, looms large for All-America consideration. Jack Prater, Virginia Tech center, and Walt Bodie, William and Mary end, also look good.

Southeastern Conference—Suber, the Mississippi State guard, heads the list, followed by Steve DeLaTorre, Florida center, Tony Sardisco, Tulane guard, Frank D'Agostino, Auburn tackle, Howard Schnellenberger, Kentucky end, Buddy Alliston, Mississippi guard, and Franklin Brooks, Georgia Tech center.

Midwest—Parker is rated the offensive defensive star of Ohio State and Meigs is the key to Notre Dame's great line. Kramer, who made the third All-America last year, has had a hard time with injuries as has Cal Jones, line guard who was on the 1954 second team. Nystrom, guard for Notre Dame and backs the line. Tom Maestri has shown for Michigan at end.

Midlands Area—Bolinger is No. 1 for Oklahoma in the line pressed by Larry Tubbs, a teammate at center. Larry Tubbs, a teammate at center. Larry Tubbs, a teammate at center. Larry Tubbs, a teammate at center.

Rocky Mountain—Top linemen are Charles Carter, Wyoming end, Larry Amick, Utah tackle, Jerry Smith, New Mexico guard, Bob Weber, Colorado A. and M., center.

Southwest—Heading the list in Pitts of Texas is a guard who has been playing end on Army's in-and-out team, and has looked good; Meigs is a real standout at Harvard; Phil Tarasovic, Yale tackle, was outstanding when Yale upset Army; Beagle, first team All-America end at Navy last year, appears close to 1954 form.

Joe The Toe Comes Through in Clutch

Jordan's Plainsmen Have Never Lost by Extra Point

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 10—When the boot means the ball game, Auburn goes with Joe's toe.

Fullback Childress' footwork doesn't end with slams into enemy forward walls. Nor does it stop with driving tackles during the course of his linebacking chores. The Robertsdale, Ala., lad also uses his big brogues for vital points from the kicking tee.

Nine of the 39 Plainsmen points charged to Childress, this season have come after touchdowns and six of these were directly responsible for victories or ties.

While Joe isn't the best mechanical kicker to hit the Plain during Coach Ralph Jordan's administration, he—as his predecessors were—is deadly accurate in the clutch.

One need go back less than seven days for a suitable example. Last Saturday, against Mississippi State, Tiger and Maroon produced four touchdowns apiece, but Childress' three extra points settled the issue, 27-26, for Auburn. His other attempt was blocked.

One of his crucial kicks had more than Darrell Royal's forces opposing it. In the second half, just as Joe went into his PAT routine on a play that had "ball game" written on it, a jet plane buzzed Cliff Hare Stadium. The plane appeared headed for a landing near the goal posts, but Joe, unperturbed, split 'em for the point.

Earlier this season, his two kicks provided the difference as Georgia Tech fell, 14-12. Still earlier Childress and quarterback Howell Tubbs collaborated in the 14-14 deadlock with Kentucky.

Joe furnished not only most of the yards, but the conversions a year ago when Auburn stunned unbeaten Miami, 14-13.

Though Childress wasn't a place-kicker in high school, he was chosen by backfield coach Buck Bradberry for that duty after he arrived at Auburn.

"Childress gets better at kicking extra points as the pressure mounts," Bradberry said. If the clash with Georgia Saturday comes to the PAT stage for a decision, the Tigers will knock on wood and send Joe to bat.

Since Jordan and assistants took over the football helm in 1951, six games have been decided by extra points and the Tigers have yet to suffer a PAT loss.

Besides those involving Childress, "Automatic" Joe Davis, whose 17 straight conversions set the Auburn record, kicked the points beating Florida, 11-13, in 1951.

Davis also booted two of the markers, knotting Mississippi State, 21-21, in a 1953 thriller. Sub signal-caller Bill Burbank kicked the other.

Auburn downed Clemson, 3-0, in 1952 on another shot fired by Davis. The toe has prevailed against the Tigers only once, in 1953, when Alabama took a 10-7 field goal verdict.

An Alley Expert

MILWAUKEE — The American Bowling Congress recognizes the 826 three-game series rolled by Ted Scudder of Milwaukee as the highest for the 1954-55 season.

OUTDOOR GEORGIA SUGGESTION TO THE ARMY: TRY ACTING LIKE A ROMAN

By BILL ALLEN

I was heartened by something that the Associated Press carried recently about the governor of New Mexico, one gallant named John Sims, who has all but gone to war with the Army of the United States.

The commander of Ft. Bliss down there had contended that his men do not need New Mexico licenses to hunt on the 400,000-acre firing range in New Mexico.

Governor Sims claimed they do and offered to back up his contention with the National Guard of New Mexico.

Consequently, with great good sense, Army Secretary Brucker has notified the commanding general at Ft. Bliss to "continue to prohibit hunting on portions of the firing range lying in New Mexico until further notice from the secretary of the Army."

This might be a good thing in Georgia. All the Army installations, which are, I am sure, of great economic importance to the state of Georgia, feel that their reservations, being government property, are a law unto themselves. Fort Benning, for instance, opened deer hunting a week or 10 days before the deer season in the rest of the state. They kill whatever they please, and I wonder how many, if any, hunting licenses they buy?

The Army is allowed by the U.S. Forest Service to roam about the mountains of north Georgia on maneuvers at will while the people of Georgia must wait for their two-or-three-day turn at the rainbow trout and deer, depending on the season.

Nobody is more in favor of strength for peace than this corner. But everybody should play by the rules of conservation. The Army is in the same position as the private landowner, I guess.

Bill Allen

The deer and bear and fish do not belong to the U.S. Army. They belong to all the people everywhere, even if the people cannot get to them on military reservations (I'm sure that the Army enforces game laws as well as any state commission with the unlimited funds available.)

I think, generally speaking, the military has little time to worry about anyone else's rules—as many as they have to administer.

But, it would be a great public relations move if they did like the Romans while in Rome.

On the other hand, it may be a good recruitment policy. Pretty soon the outdoor man will join the Army just to be sure he can get a shot at the game, or have a chance at the fish.

SOMETHING AMISS: Many years ago, a thinking conservationist, now state Senator Bennie Jones of Paulding County, talked the Game and Fish Commission into stocking deer in the county. Last year they had a three-day season, and this year a 10-day season is in progress. But something is amiss. Everyone who goes up there to hunt and does not wear a badge showing he is a member of the Paulding County Sportsmen's club, according to G&F chief W. E. Murphy, is sent home. All the land is posted and outsiders are being charged $10 a head to hunt it. G&F Director Fulton Lovell said Thursday night Murphy had arrested five members of the club for offenses ranging from hunting with dogs, through killing doe and fawn deer. Thousands of complaints have been received at the commission office, but Murphy reported: "The people defied me and said the grand jury would throw out my cases. Fulton Lovell said, 'This is the reason we have ceased stocking deer on private property. There's nothing we can do about the deer already on private property.' This corner believes Senator Jones might be able to quell the storm, if he will.

FRESHMEN IN REVIEW

Fullback Butler Gets Vandy Rave Notices

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10—He'll knock 'em over, he'll run past 'em, he never played defense in his life. That's the thumbnail on Vanderbilt's top freshman prospect, Jimmy Butler.

Vandy freshman coach Bill Hickman has no worries about the big Memphis fullback's learning defense, however. "He's a natural offensive player already, could go with the varsity today, but he never played defense in high school and that's what we're working on," Hickman says. "We have all the confidence in his making it because he's a good natural athlete."

Butler is a dream grinder physically. Weighs 195-200, stands six feet, runs the 100 in 10.5 and can hoof it as either a fullback or halfback. Hurt in his last high school season, Butler is a real steal for Vandy.

The Commodores have five other boys on their first-year squad who figure to step into important varsity notches next season, including husky Tommy Redmond, the end from East Point, Ga. Redmond, 6-4 and 215, excels as a blocker, something the Vandy folks appreciate in an end. He's got the hands and agility to be a good flanker for the Commodores.

A halfback with the broken-field savvy if not the speed of Georgia Tech's George Volkert is the only other backfield light. He's Dan McCall, a shifty 170-pounder from Elizabethton who's a top-notch all-around football player. "He'll give us a lift next year," Hickman says.

In the line, besides Redmond, Vandy coaches like a center, a guard and a tackle right now. He's a 200-pounder named Hal Northrop out of Ithaca, N.Y., who has the advantage of two years' prep school experience on his side. He may wind up a guard, though.

The top guard is Billy Grover, a stubby 3-9, 190-pounder from Hohenwald who's impressed Head Coach Art Guepe with his willingness to mix it up in duels with the varsity. "A hard-nosed kid," Hickman says. The center, too, likes to jump in there on defense and should be in a key spot next year. He's Bob Simmons, 190-pounder from Kelson.

Auburn, Tech, Florida Get Saturday Nods

The Constitution football consensus, which is battling .559 for the season, gives a solid (9-0) vote of confidence to Georgia Tech in its clash with Alabama Saturday. Only one dissenting ballot was cast against Auburn in its effort to beat a rugged Georgia Bulldog.

In other top games around the conference and nation, the consensus selected Florida over Tennessee, 5-4; Tulane over Vanderbilt, 8-1; Maryland over Clemson, 7-2; Mississippi State over LSU, 8-1; Pittsburgh over West Virginia, 5-4; and Michigan over Indiana, 9-0.

Staffer Charlie Roberts pushed into the consensus driver's seat last week by bringing his season's total to 285 out of 373 for a .764 average. Bert Prather follows closely with a .762 average.

Johnston Sparkles In North Fulton Win

Irish Fall, 28-13, as Bulldogs Cop Ninth of 10 in Closer

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

North Fulton's perennial "bridesmaids" assured themselves of a second-place finish for the third successive season in the Northern Division of the City League high school football race, bashing O'Keefe, 28-13, at Grady Stadium Friday night in the season-closer for both elevens.

Dillon Johnston and Bobby Cruikshank, two of the finest region 3-AA backs of recent seasons, sparked Coach Frank Jerinigan's Bulldogs to their ninth triumph in 10 starts.

Senior Johnston, who upped his loop-leading point total to 75 points by scoring two touchdowns and one extra point, bulled 93 yards on 18 carries for a 5.2 yards-per-try average and upped his season overland total to an unofficial 700 yards even. He also returned three kicks for 48 yards and, as usual, was a sore-thumb defensive stick-out.

Fullback Cruikshank butted 77 yards on 14 lugs. Quarterback Bobby Jones rammed for 40 on six totes, but lost 13 while trying to pass twice. He passed little because of a field made muddy by morning rains, but once hit Vance Rankin, one of the year's great ends, for 22 yards, and tossed a 15-yard scoring aerial to back David Magee for the TD that gave the Bulldogs a 28-0 lead early in the fourth quarter.

John Houk and Merritt Alexander gave the big three strong running support and tackles George

SHOEMAKER ESCAPES INJURY IN 4-HORSE SPILL AT LAUREL

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 10 (P)—Willie Shoemaker, one of four jockeys hurt slightly in a spectacular spill in the seventh race at Laurel Thursday said he'll be able to ride in Friday's International.

Shoemaker is scheduled to ride England's Darius in the $65,000 International grass race.

Shoemaker and the other three jockeys spilled, Oliver Cutshaw, James Fitzgerald and Jorge Contreras, were released after treatment at the track infirmary.

Cutshaw, who appeared more shaken than the others, suffered a slight cut to his right hand, while Contreras complained of soreness to his right wrist. Fitzgerald said he was okay.

Chamblee Wins DeKalb Race

Chamblee High Thursday won the DeKalb County cross country championship at the waterworks course with a low score of 23 points. Following in order were Southwest DeKalb, 51, and Druid Hills, 92.

Individual winner was Avon Sledge, who won the 10-mile race in 24 minutes and 24 seconds, one second better than Chamblee's Jimmy Grant.

FSU Picked To Fluster Hurricanes

By BILL MCGROTHA

GREENVILLE, S.C., Nov. 10—

For the first time this season, Florida State University is a quite solid favorite to win a football game. The Seminoles are regarded three or more touchdowns better than Furman University in their encounter here Friday at 8 p.m.

History majors might note, however, that FSU has come out on top only once in three previous starts against the Purple Hurricanes, and that was last year in Tallahassee, 33-14. Furman won the first two games of the series, 9-0, and 14-7.

Furman, under new coach Homer Hobbs, has played seven games this season, won none. Tom Nugent's Seminoles have won two, their first one and last one, in six starts.

N. C. State serves as the only comparative score yardstick. FSU won its opener from the Wolfpack, 7-0. In Furman's last outing two weeks back a greatly improved N.C. State team, which has scored more than 100 points its last three times out, took a 33-7 victory.

Chances of Furman to uncork an upset hinge on how well its suffering freshmen have learned their football lessons.

Among these is Ray Bryant, a slick-passing quarterback who has been on target a number of times this season only to have his bullets dropped.

Social Outcast Tops International Field

Traffic Judge, Panaslipper Receive Backing at Laurel

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 10 (P)—An aristocratic field of 13 horses representing seven countries will shoot for the $65,000 Washington International at Laurel Park Thursday, with the United States' Social Outcast and Traffic Judge rated the ones to beat.

But anyone who saw the first running of this mile and one-half classic in 1952 will have to keep his fingers crossed. They don't take the runners from across the Atlantic lightly any more.

Social Outcast is a leading candidate for 1955 handicap championship honors, from the barn of Alfred Vanderbilt. Traffic Judge, owned by Clifford Moores, is the best 3-year-old around since Nashua and Swaps retired for the season.

In 1952 everyone said the United States would be 1-2-3, and "who will be the first foreigner after that?"

England's Wilwyn stunned the crowd by finishing first, while Greek Ship, the 6-5 American favorite, with Eddie Arcaro up, staggered home sixth. Three of the first four under the wire were from across the big pond.

France's Worden won in 1953 and Fisherman of the United States barely defeated Banassa of France last fall.

If there is any foreign intrigue this time, say visitors from overseas, it could be Panaslipper from the land of the Shamrock. This 3-year-old colt is owned by the Irish national stud, and runs in the blue and gold silks of Sean O'Kelly, president of Ireland. Panaslipper ran second in the English Derby and won the Irish Derby.

England is represented by Dorothy Paget's Nucleus and Sir Percy Loraine's Darius; France by Ralph Strassburger's Mahan and Count Roland de Chambray's Picouada; Germany by Baron Henry Thyssen's Ataturk; Canada by the Alberta Ranches' Prefect; Venezuela by Jose Frederico Sencard's Prendase and Carlos V.

Old Army Guard Dies at 86

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 10 (P)—An old soldier who liked to recall scoring the first touchdown for West Point against Annapolis died last night.

He was Col. Fine Wilson Smith, 86, a member of the West Point class of 1895.

A son, Siegmund W. Smith, an announcer at KFSD television station, said his father was a guard on the Army team and made the touchdown after recovering a fumble.

It was the second game between the two service academies—the 1891 game which the Army won, 32-16. The Navy won the 1890 game, 24-0.

Colonel Smith, a native of Eddyville, Ky., saw 26 years active service, including the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection and World War I. He retired in 1921.

DRUID HILLS' TEMP SNYDER SLAPPED DOWN BY MARIST IN FIRST PERIOD

Ken Adamson (44) Brings Matters to a Head After John Kelly (60), Mate Made Tackle

Snyder and Jones Lead Druid Hills to 13-0 Win

Marist Halted at One-Yard Line; Maloof and Jollock Head Losers

By RED MULLINS

Druid Hills High struck for two long distance touchdowns to batter the Marist Cadets, 13-0, and hang in the Region 4-A West race by a flimsy mathematical thread, based on the outcome of two important Friday night encounters.

Thursday night's contest closed the season for both schools, provided Druid Hills does not share in the title picture.

Halfback Temp Snyder and end Larry Jones handled all of the scoring for the inspired Red Devils of Coach Elmer Morrow. Early in the first period Druid Hills had its scoring opportunity and was quick to take advantage. After Frank Roper had dropped back in punting position, a bad snap of the slippery ball gave the Red Devils the ball at their own 42.

Snyder lugged for seven yards to the 49. Then quarterback Bobby Boylston found Jones behind the safety man at the Cadets' 35 and Jones gathered the pass and scampered across for the TD. Neal Patrick's conversion made it 7-0 until late in the third period.

After Roper had punted dead on the Druid Hills 37, Snyder lost one yard in two tries, but on the third he exploded for a sensational 64-yard touchdown gallop, and scoring was over for the evening.

Coach Boots Payne's Cadets had two scoring opportunities in the second period, but an inspired Red Devil defense—led by Tommy Najour and Ewing Hunter—threw back one drive at the one-yard line and another thrust at the 19. Marist offensive standouts were

First Downs	13	6
Yards Rushing	93	20

Robert Maloof and Larry Jollock. On several plays one key block would have sprung Maloof loose. Tackles Ken Adamson and Joe Dessert anchored the Cadets' fore-wall.

The Cadets' final scoring chance was fumbled away at the Red Devil 15-yard line; alert Carl Akin pounced on a Jollock bobble to end Marist's final charge.

Now all Druid Hills can do is sit back and hope for two upsets—Hapeville over College Park and Fairburn over Southwest DeKalb—for a possible four-way region tie. It may take more than hoping, however.

extravagance in a lot of counties, Williams declared.

"I don't think this waste and extravagance are wilful on the part of county officials," he went on. "I think they came about by county government piling on more and more new functions to meet increasing needs, growing topsyturvy instead of with careful planning."

Williams said he considers it just as important for the counties to save taxpayers' money as for the state to try to do it.

"The state government has gone about as far as it can in providing services for the people," Williams asserted. "Any savings the counties can make will result in reducing crises which the state government faces from time to time."

Williams was impressed with the modern trend of counties cooperating with each other to finance services they could not finance alone. He said the counties should do more contracting with each other for services, thereby cutting down on overhead costs and providing better facilities for the people.

Williams said the counties could use the savings in administrative costs and elimination of inefficiency to improve their schools.

He has a primary interest in schools. Before he was appointed to the University System Board of Regents by Gov. Griffin, he served as chairman of the Bulloch County Board of Education.

"I can think better out here," Mr. Plunkett was quoted as saying.

NO WITNESSES
Detectives said they had not located any witnesses. Terminal employees discovered the body after the train had passed and spread the alarm.

A veteran employee of Atlanta Joint Terminals, Mr. Plunkett had served as terminal superintendent for more than 10 years.

A native of Big Spring, Tex., Mr. Plunkett had been connected with the railway industry since 1908, when he was clerk in the yard office of the Atlanta Terminals. He was promoted to chief clerk in 1913, and became assistant to the superintendent in 1928.

He was a member of St. Paul Methodist Church.

Planes Seek Slain Woman's Car at Dawnvile

a woman, slumped over in the front seat, who did not move, he added.

Alabama officers Wednesday furnished Sol. Erwin Mitchell, Sheriff MacArthur and GBI Agent E. M. Whitfield with composite details of a man seen in several Birmingham cafes Monday evening with Miss Hill. Witnesses said the man was drinking beer.

He was 28 to 32 years old, five feet, six, to five feet, nine inches tall, weighing 175-185 pounds. He was described as "very friendly and smiles a lot." Several acquaintances of Miss Hill described him further as having a noticeably large head, large front teeth with a gap between the upper front ones.

The woman proprietor of Abbe's Cafe in Birmingham said the ex-candy store saleswoman introduced him as "just a man from Georgia."

The slender woman's body was found Tuesday morning by Ralph Goswick, a resident of the section near Dawnvile, as he drove along the road—170 miles from where she was last seen alive and 15 hours afterward.

Officers estimated she had been dead eight to 14 hours.

A strange clue found two miles away greatly hastened identification of the woman. Two teenage boys found a telephone receipt made out to Clois Hill in a rural mailbox on another road. Written in pencil on the back was "She was killed in Bessemer, Alabama."

Georgia officers are not so sure. Until the death scene can be pinpointed, officers of both states are tracing every possible lead.

Alabama officers said the "man from Georgia" appears to be a chance acquaintance, who was supposed to go to the wrestling matches with Miss Hill Monday night. He was last seen when he left the cafe to get a shave for the date.

The body was not identified until Wednesday evening. James Coston, of Bessemer, Ala., Miss Hill's brother-in-law, said she called his wife, Lois (her younger sister), around 5:30 p.m. and said she would be by to take her to the wrestling matches at 7 p.m.

The body has been taken from Dalton to Arab, Ala., the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill.

The bidding:
 South 1 heart Pass West 4 hearts East Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

The holdup play has various purposes. At no trump it is designed to run one of the defenders out of a suit so that if he subsequently obtains the lead he will be unable to return it to his partner. At suit play the very same principles may be applied. Here, however, the holdup play is calculated to prevent a ruff. There is another end to be attained by the holdup play and that is the gaining of time.

Today's hand provides an example of such tactics. The final contract is perfectly logical though there may be some question as to North's response. The jump raise to four of a major suit is generally confined to those hands which contain a wealth of trumps and a singleton but not much in the way of high cards. However, it is not our purpose to take issue with North on this point.

The opening lead was the king of diamonds and when the singleton appeared in the dummy, West promptly shifted to the eight of clubs. The ten was played from dummy and East put up the jack. The king and the nine thus became marked in East's hand. If declarer should win this trick, he would be left at the mercy of the spade finesse, for if it failed, another club lead would provide the defense with the two tricks needed to set the contract.

Declarer, however, made the proper play of refusing to win the trick. East, of course, could not continue with the club attack, and this gave declarer some precious time to establish a spade trick in dummy. East actually returned a trump and that suit was cleared up in two leads. The spade finesse was then tried and when it failed West continued with a club. This trick was taken by declarer, who cashed the ace of spades, entered dummy by ruffing a diamond and discarded a club on the now established queen of spades.

WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Golden League Pen Calls for Letters

For 35 years I have taught a weekly Bible class. But the past two years my duties have doubled, for now I teach a 9:30 Sunday school class at St. John's Church in my section of Chicago.

Then I head to the Chicago Loop where I teach another class at the Chicago Temple at 12:30 that same Sunday noon.

And many of the members of my two classes have asked for something specific and tangible that they could do.

"We wish to harness our moral idealism," one married girl recently expressed it. "So what would you recommend, Dr. Crane?"

SPECIFIC HELPFULNESS
 So I launched Dr. Waugh's "League of the Golden Pen" and asked for volunteers from each class who would agree to send off one such encouraging letter each week.

The next Sunday, I devoted 15 minutes to a testimonial meeting at which time I asked the class members to tell to whom they had written.

One man said he had sent a letter to a grammar school teacher whom he had enjoyed as a fourth grader many years ago.

"I had never thought to thank her for her helpful influence," he told us. "But she changed me from a bad boy who played hooky, and set me on the right track."

"So I sent her a letter to express, even though many years belatedly, my deep appreciation. And she wrote me an immediate reply, saying she was now 83 years of age and living by herself in one room with a little gas plate to cook on."

"Her arthritis was getting worse and she felt especially blue on the day when my surprise letter arrived. "I don't get many letters any more," she said, "so it was a real surprise just to have the postman leave something for me downstairs."

"And I can't thank you enough for your generous letter. You know, I taught school for nearly 50 years, but this is the first letter of thanks I have ever received from any of my thousands of pupils."

"So I shall cherish it the rest of my life. It buoyed up my morale that dreary morning until it seemed as if the sun were shining, although the damp cold clouds still overcast the sky outside."

ACT TODAY
 "What can I do," you may ask, "to help spread a little more of God's psychological sunshine to other people?"

Well, sit down and write a long overdue letter to somebody who has helped you in the past but whom you failed to thank adequately.

The words flowing from your pen will truly be golden in their beneficial effect.

Your pen will actually help produce a little more of heaven right here on earth.

So act today. Don't delay. Spread sunshine while you may. The grave will soon stop our good deeds here on this earth.

So cheer the souls of discouraged folks by a note of praise and you'll feel happier, too.

For generosity is like the poor widow's barrel of meal. It never gets depleted. The more you give, the more there is available for you and others.

So start with your children. Or your mate. And spread compliments to your co-workers or even the casual acquaintances who sit beside you en route to work each day.

Hell is paved with good intentions, but Heaven is paved with good deeds, so do something helpful now.

British Brigadier Had an Answer

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Lord Windlesham told the House of Lords in debate he knew a World War II brigadier who knew how to dispose of problems. "Whenever an issue came to him that he could not answer, did not want to answer, or could not find anyone to pass it on to, he put the files under the carpet and nailed them down," Lord Windlesham said. "He went through his career full of years and honors." No name was mentioned.

Baby's Convulsion May Herald Illness

Many physicians have been called asking them to "come quick, my baby has a convulsion." By the time the medic arrives, the attack is usually over.

Most fever convulsions in infants are analogous to the chill that ushers in an infection in older children and adults. The seizure takes place after the baby has been asleep for a while. The physician makes a thorough examination to determine the cause.

If he finds the tonsils red and swollen, he has his answer. Should the urine show pus, a kidney infection is responsible.

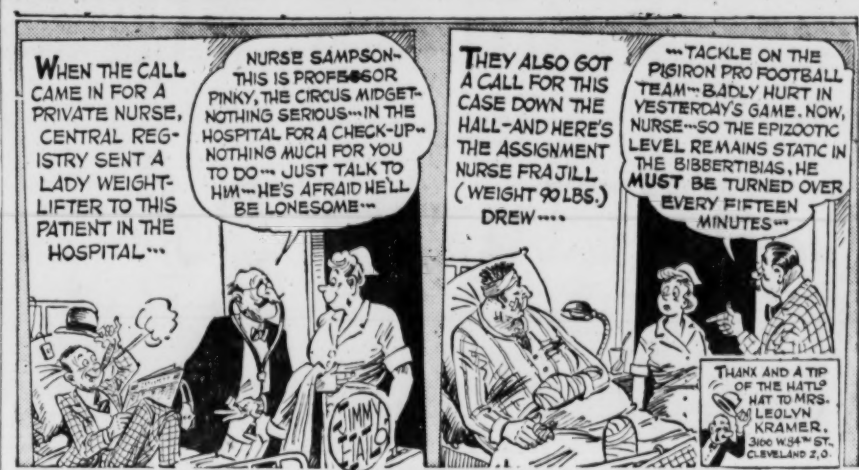

Measles is suspected when the child does not look sick even though his temperature is high. Convulsions also may precede meningitis or encephalitis.

It is more difficult to uncover the origin of a convulsion that is not associated with fever or followed by an infectious disease. The majority is traceable to organic disease of the brain or to a systemic disorder. The search for the cause usually begins with the life history of the baby.

The mother is asked 1,001 questions relative to her pregnancy, delivery and the first week or 10 days thereafter in an attempt to find out how the brain could have been injured. German measles during early pregnancy may alter the development of the brain, and the same applies to trauma to the head during confinement.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

The first few moments of life are hazardous along this line, especially when the newborn refuses to cry or breathe; during these moments the brain fails to receive its quota of oxygen, and as a result, some of the delicate structures deteriorate.

Illness during the first week of life also may damage the brain.

Occasionally, brain tumor or hydrocephalus is responsible. Lead poisoning is another possibility, particularly in youngsters old enough to eat flakes of paint that have fallen.

Still another source of convulsions is a low blood sugar, resulting from a disorder of the endocrine glands. Seizures due to tetany are not as common as in the past because rickets is combated with vitamin D.

This type of convulsion, in contrast to those associated with fever, has a tendency to recur and last longer. The jerking movements of extremities and head may continue 30 minutes to an hour or more.

A Rhyme a Day

"The enclosed clipping from a Thomasville (Ga.) newspaper reminds us no one has dedicated a poem to a mule. What do you say?"—Note to this space, (signed) Mrs. H. J. Colson.

That hybrid creature called "the mule" ... can be as stubborn as an ox ... he's an exception to the rule ... and just a bit unorthodox ... he is contrary to the laws ... that Nature passed long years ago ... which doubtless make him sore because ... his social standing is so low.

His parents were, to say the least ... a very badly mated pair ... his father was a shiftless beast ... his mother was a careless mare ... and he, himself, has never wed ... which is a lonesome way of life ... this living by himself instead ... of having children and a wife.

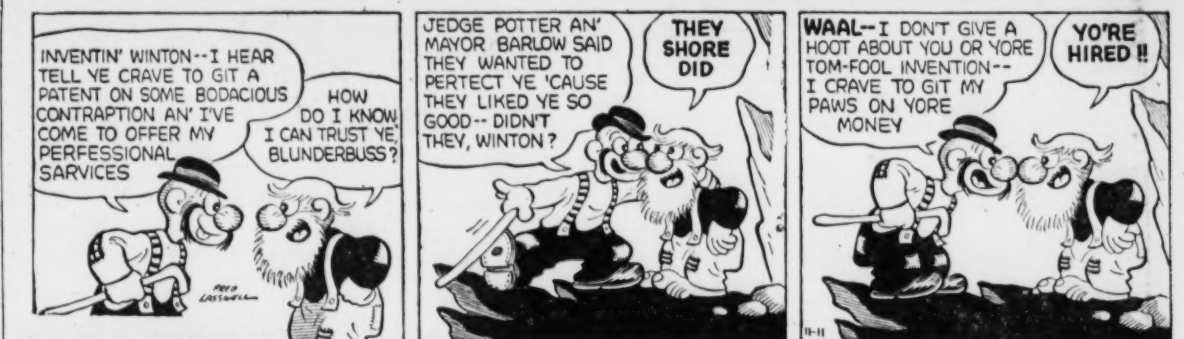

Considering the life he's led ... which is so empty and forlorn ... this poor unhappy quadruped ... must rue the day that he was born ... a creature that we ridicule ... whose efforts are a total loss ... and if I had to be a mule ... I think I'd rather be a "boss" ... I also think that any way ... you view it, "life is not sublime" ... for him, that's all I have to say ... about it at the present time.

Randolph Registrars Quit in Bias Row

CUTBERT, No. 10—All three members of the Randolph County Board of Registrars have resigned as a result of a damage suit filed against them in connection with registration of Negro voters.

The registrars, R. S. Banks, C. C. Martin and J. W. Lay, submitted a letter of resignation to Judge Walter I. Geer of Pataula Circuit.

In their letter, the registrars said that "despite the honest and conscientious efforts" they made to administer state laws, they have been harassed, worried and brought into federal court as defendants in a million-dollar suit.

Bank and Martin "had a money verdict of $880 returned against them in federal court despite the fact that they have been denied the right to publicly defend themselves against many of the unwarranted attacks made against them."

They said in the letter that

VIENNA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Recently freed Austria is asking Red-ruled Hungary to remove the barbed wire and minefields on the Hungarian side of their border.

Bank and Martin "had a money verdict of $880 returned against them in federal court despite the fact that they have been denied the right to publicly defend themselves against many of the unwarranted attacks made against them."

The registrars said that for them to continue on the board would "further subject them to attack from persons who may deem themselves deprived of some right, regardless of how fully they may attempt to comply with the laws pertaining to rights of individuals as voters."

The registrars charge they also are "threatened with suit by a group alleged to contain 483 persons, 'and that this and the possibility of other suits constitute

Redemption Is Solution to Ills of Work

Question: I read in the paper things there lies the deceitfulness of the heart. The outward manifestations of sin have their roots in the heart—impurity, hatred, envy, jealousy, avarice, intemperance, intolerance, greed.

ANSWER: The world is full of problems—social, economic, racial and other relationships we have an entirely different approach. That is why the solution of the world's problems are contingent on the change of the heart itself.

Christ spoke of this as being "born again." When we accept Him as Savior and Lord, He comes into our hearts and makes us new people. That is what we call regeneration and it takes this, rather than reformation, to change individual lives and the social order of which we are a part.

BISHOP SAYS YES

TV Sponsor Judged by Show?

By VAL ADAMS
The New York Times News Service
NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen told a group of broadcasting executives that in his opinion television viewers tend to judge a sponsor by the type of program he presents.

The Roman Catholic prelate, who is auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of New York, said: "I believe the small community of viewers—that is, the family unit of four or five persons—sees a close resemblance between the sponsor and the type of program he presents. If the sponsor puts on a half-hour show in which 25 or 26 minutes are devoted to crime and the acts of criminals, the family may say, 'How do we know the sponsor is not a racketeer, too?'"

Bishop Sheen, who conducts a commercially sponsored television and radio program over the American Broadcasting Co. networks, spoke at a luncheon of the Radio and Television Executives Society in the Roosevelt Hotel. When asked after the luncheon to expand his remarks, he answered:

"Take a wrestling program. Wrestling is a fake. If Tiffany sponsored such a program the family would ask, 'What is Tiffany selling—zircon?' The family establishes a moral relationship between the sponsor and program."

Throughout his speech Bishop Sheen encouraged television executives to move into areas of programming, especially programs that enlighten and inform audiences. He suggested, for ex-

Lillian Roth Magnificent As Alcoholic in 'Outcast'

By JACK GOULD

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Lillian Roth gave a magnificent portrayal of an alcoholic in "Outcast," an original drama presented Wednesday night on the U.S. Steel Hour. In its understanding, in its poignancy, in its sensitivity, her performance was one that can only be called memorable.

Before the start of the play Miss Roth appeared briefly on the screen to note that "Outcast" was not her personal story of conquering the drinking habit, told in her book, "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

She voiced the hope that "Outcast" might help others to see the problem of alcoholism and return to normal life.

Miss Roth made her own hope come true. In "Outcast," adapted by Turner Bullock from an original story by Frank Gabrielson, she played a Hollywood writer who takes to the bottle after personal tragedy. For several years she is helped when a housekeeper and the housekeeper's little girl live with her. The child gives her purpose in life.

But when the housekeeper, who had not been previously married, finds a prospective husband the writer once again is left alone and she resumes drinking. Finally, in a drunken stupor, she frightens the one person she loves—the little girl—and of her own volition decides she is ready to accept the aid of Alcoholics Anonymous.

It was Miss Roth, however, who gave the story its dimension and depth. To the characterization of the drunk she brought a haunting reality. The slovenly speech, the loudness and furtiveness of the woman's behavior, the loneliness and fear that cannot be explained, all these she etched into an unforgettable portrait. Norman Felton's direction was extremely good, his camera work highlighting the tension as the alcoholic tried to fight her way out of her dilemma.

Israel Plans To Buy Guns Anywhere If Endangered

Sharett Flies to U.S. for Bond Drive; Asserts Nation Will Cede No Territory

By IRVING SPIEGEL

The New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Moshe Sharett, Israel's foreign minister, warned today that his nation will accept arms from any country in the world if its security is threatened.

His warning was sounded after Sharett said "no" when asked if the Soviet Union has offered to sell arms to his country. Sharett asserted, however, Israel "if driven to a tight corner and our survival is at stake we will seek and accept arms from any source."

Sharett arrived today at New York International Airport. He is scheduled to make a transcontinental tour in behalf of the Israel bond campaign, with his first address in Chicago Saturday night.

SCORES ARMS BUY

In interviews Sharett dwelt mainly on Middle East tensions arising out of the shipment of heavy arms to Egypt from Czechoslovakia. He scored the "sharp upsetting of the balance of arms between Israel and its chief enemy and neighbor, Egypt," saying it created an "inherent danger" of outbreak of hostilities.

Commenting on the offer of Prime Minister Eden to have Great Britain as a mediator, Sharett said he was disconcerted "by the reference to the need of a compromise" on the territorial phase of the dispute. He added Israel is under "no moral or political compulsion to concede any territorial sovereignty."

He emphasized that his nation has no desire for any more territory. He pointed out that at the cessation of hostilities in the Holy Land following Israel's establishment as a nation, "the Kingdom of Jordan gained territory, Egypt was holding the Gaza Strip, and Syria and Lebanon lost nothing."

"TO KEEP TERRITORY"

"There IS a State of Israel," he said. "It is as much a reality as Egypt, Lebanon, Syria or Jordan. It would be fantastic to suggest that Egypt or Syria or Lebanon give up part of their territory. It is equally fantastic that Israel should buy peace at the price of her territorial status."

Sharett added he did not seek to convey the idea of absolute "rigidity" of territorial lines. He explained that all nations are willing to make minor adjustments of boundaries "if in the mutual interests."

His nation's chief concern is the problem of security, he said.

A 20-Cent Phonograph For Cold War Shown

The New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—A rugged little hand-operated phonograph which can be manufactured for 50 cents or even 20—was unveiled today by Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America. Sarnoff made the first public demonstration of the machine at a lunch held by the Overseas Press Club. He said it is the answer to the need he felt for a device which could bring a message without being subject either to radio jamming or a source of electricity and which is priced so that "millions can be delivered free."

The little machine, said Sarnoff, is unbreakable and can be dropped by air "behind the Iron or Bamboo Curtain." He said it is so simple it can be assembled and operated by the simplest people.

The machine was demonstrated by Arthur Van Dyke, designer at RCA who developed the simple gadget. It is composed of a base which fits a turntable which has a crack in its axis. An arm carrying a needle and a "radiator" also fits into the base. The record is turned at 78 revolutions a minute—or as close as the operator can come to it—because that is the most usual turntable speed throughout the world and also because it is easier to maintain manually than slower recording speeds.

Several unbreakable records—seven-inch ones which can be manufactured for five cents each and which play three minutes a side—were cranked off by Van Dyke. The messages came out of the little instrument loud and clear.

Sarnoff said RCA has no com-

Girl Sentenced To 7 to 15 Years In Fatal Stabbing

A 17-year-old Negro girl has been sentenced to a prison term of seven to 15 years in the fatal stabbing of her husband.

A Fulton Superior Court jury convicted the girl, Catherine Alexander, of a Fraser street, SE, address, of voluntary manslaughter Wednesday in the July 5 stabbing of Edward Alexander.

The girl told police she called her husband, who was visiting at the home of a friend, several times but he would not come home.

When the husband finally came home, she claimed on the witness stand, he grabbed for a butcher knife during an argument. She reached the knife first and stabbed him in the chest. He stumbled outside into an alley and died, according to testimony.

Sentence was passed by Judge Claude D. Shaw.

Putnam County Patrol Car Crash Hearing Slated

Lt. Col. Eason Jones said Wednesday a State Patrol board would have a routine hearing to determine the cause of an accident in which a patrol car crashed into a bridge in Putnam County.

Corp. C. W. Fuller, driver, said he was chasing a speeding automobile when he lost control of the police car. Fuller was not injured. Damage to the patrol car was estimated at $600.

'NO HOLDS BARRED' DEBATE AT HUNTSVILLE

Vogel Grips With 'Citizens for TVA,' Defends Right To Take Up for Ike

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP)—Herbert Vogel, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and the Citizens for TVA tangled here today in a strenuous three-hour debate on the federal power system.

Vogel at one time told the group's executive committee that "it is wrong to defend the President of the United States, I am as wrong as hell, and I will continue to be wrong."

The TVA chairman was invited to the Citizens for TVA meeting, which was to have been a question and answer session.

CHARGES HURLED

Charges and countercharges of partisan politics were hurled between Vogel and members of the executive committee.

All questions were submitted in writing, and Vogel took each in turn. All together, the session took on a "no holds barred" atmosphere. It was the first time Vogel had faced the Citizens for TVA, and his opposition to the group was well known.

Citizens for TVA was organized several years ago to further the development of TVA. It is composed of businessmen and other officials of the Tennessee Valley area.

Today's meeting, which got under way shortly after 3 p.m., broke up only when it was announced more than three hours later that the ballroom where the meeting was being held had been reserved by another group.

Vogel's reference to President Eisenhower came in reply to charges by Charles Houk, secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, that Vogel was guilty of partisan politics.

Vogel's only formal statement was his opening remarks, before he answered the first question. He said he had not come to defend himself, but had come on invitation to answer questions and to express his opinion that he is doing the best job that he could for TVA, and expects to continue to do so.

Mayor George Dempster of Knoxville, president of Citizens for TVA, opened the meeting by saying that the group is "not dedicated to irritate anybody, but some of the questions Mr. Vogel will be asked will be controversial."

SETS STAGE FOR ROW

C. L. Beard of Sheffield, Ala., set the stage for heated exchange with his first question.

Beard emphasized that a TVA organizational bill to provide a self financing plan for TVA had been drafted and approved by all three members of the TVA board of directors. When the revised bill was submitted to the House at its last session, said Beard, it was opposed by a majority of the TVA staff, but was supported by Vogel. Then, Beard asked Vogel to explain why he abandoned his original position.

Before answering, Vogel made

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Friday, November 11, 1955 • 25

his opening remarks, in which he listed his objections to the policies of the Citizens for TVA.

Vogel told Beard that he changed his position concerning the TVA bill because he wanted to get "something" for TVA. He placed himself in the position of a man who "failing to close the deal for a Cadillac, settled for a Buick."

Vogel took the Citizens for TVA to task for fostering partisan politics, the same charges that had been hurled at him. He said that should the group get Congress to fighting, "nobody will get anything."

Roof 'Katz' To Prowl For Charity

O'Keefe High School Auditorium will have the atmosphere of a Broadway theater this weekend as some 70 Atlantans demonstrate their dramatic ability in an original musical comedy.

The Atlanta Lodge of B'nai B'rith is presenting "Katz on a Hot Tin Roof," with no relation to or reflection intended on Tennessee Williams' Broadway success, for the benefit of its charity program.

The show will be presented Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 p.m. Six months has been spent on writing and producing the show.

FAMOUS SIRENS

The plot of the play, written by Harry Spitzer and Dr. Ted Levitas, is built around the troubles involved in producing a musical comedy.

Singing and dancing choruses sustain a lively pace throughout the production. Famous sirens from the history books constitute many of the major roles and inspire musical numbers. The sirens include Cleopatra, Josephine, Catherine of Russia, Helen of Troy, Pocahontas and Georgia's Scarlett O'Hara.

Alvin Saul wrote the original lyrics and Mrs. Hildegard Bennett, codirector of the Atlanta Civic Ballet, is in charge of dance production and choreography.

MUSICAL DIRECTION

Musical direction for the show is under the supervision of Miss Frances Wallace, who has been musical director of one of Atlanta's radio stations, and many local fashion shows. Mrs. Larry Goldberg is director of dramatics in "Katz on a Hot Tin Roof."

The cast is considered amateur because members are donating their time and talents, but many have had theatrical training in dancing, singing and acting. Several have appeared in professional groups in Atlanta and other cities.

The production is original down to the costumes, designed by Mrs. Hildegard Bennett and Mrs. I. Wilen. Headresses for the sirens were created by an Atlanta designer, Gerald Underwood.

BROADWAY JEWELRY

The only part of the costumes that isn't original is the jewelry, which is a valuable collection that was worn in the Broadway production of "Silk Stockings."

The set, scene of a backstage in a rehearsal hall, was designed by David Dunay. Mr. Dunay also plays a lead role in the musical comedy. He will be one of the two authors in the play, and Marvin Moss will play the other. Perry Morris will play the part of director. Other principals will be Miss Jean Rothstein, Dr. Levitas and Mrs. Bernard Lipman.

This is the second original production by this group. The first, "Dial 'M' for Matrimony," enjoyed a successful run in February of 1954.

Tobe Says Knit Fashions Smart, Useful

If you have never had a knit dress you can't begin to imagine what you've missed. Not only is it one of the perennially smart fashions in the world—and all over the world at that—but it's also one of the most useful.

As a matter of fact, one could have a whole wardrobe of knits starting with a knit suit; then a knit dress; then a knit ensemble with low neck dress; winding up with a beautiful cocktail or short dinner dress in hand knit or ganje or fine silk ribbon.

All of these are superb for travel, too—as none of them ever musses or looks crushed after a term in a suitcase or a long plane trip.

Girls 'Walk' Globes; Career Is Balanced

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A guy's gotta have heart to train girls for a job. For some jobs, anyway. And when the work requires unending patience, split-second timing and an unflinching sense of balance, a guy's gotta have courage.

Especially if the lassies number five and one of them is his missus.

Such a man is the slight, soft-spoken Hungarian whose troupe, the Lacy's, is making a hit with Shrine Circus audiences here this week.

The Lacy troupe has resurrected a "lost art" of show business—globe walking.

Mr. Lacy, a Budapest-born British citizen, organized and trained his troupe five years ago. The act features intricate maneuvers of wooden spheres with lightning-quick movements of the feet.

The troupe "walks" the globes into various figures—such as the figure eight—up and down a seesaw. The girls and Mr. Lacy perform various dance steps borrowed from the ballet—all while "riding" the spheres.

In addition to Mr. Lacy and his Vienna-born auburn-haired wife, Lucia, the troupe includes Sheila, 18; Doris, Maureen and Barbara, all 21.

"I advertised in the newspapers in England for the talent," Mr. Lacy explained, "and was very fortunate to have these girls apply."

It takes nine or 10 months to train a girl for globe-walking, provided they are, like those of the Lacy troupe, "serious-minded, hard-working people."

But Mr. Lacy's responsibility doesn't end with the final polishing of the act.

"VERY STRICT"
"I am responsible for these girls in every way," he said. "They are all good girls, but in many ways I am quite old-fashioned. I am very strict with them."

The girls are not allowed to go anywhere unless accompanied by Mr. Lacy or his wife. And, except for the grease paint worn during their performances, they are not allowed to wear make-up.

"I do not approve of make-up," explained Mr. Lacy. "And besides, they all look nice without it."

The girls are never allowed to have dates. "You see," said Mrs. Lacy, "always it is hard for girls in show business. And when you travel with a circus it is sometimes even more so."

TWO DAUGHTERS

The Lacy's have two daughters, 7 and 5½. The girls are in a convent boarding school in England while their parents are on tour.

"We want them to get a good education," Mrs. Lacy said. "We do not want to force them into any particular type of work. But if they wish to enter show business, we would have no objections. The education comes first though."

The Hungarian costumes worn by the performers are products of Mrs. Lacy's nimble fingers. Featuring short gathered skirts, blue satin blouses and elaborate sequin-trimmed vests, the costumes require as much patience as any other phase of the work.

"There are 160,000 sequins on each of the vests," Mrs. Lacy said. "They must be sewn on one by one. It takes quite a bit of time."

The Lacy troupe has been in the United States 39 weeks, appearing with Shrine circuses in various sections of the country.

Celestine Sibley Cotton's Silly Symphony

Well, this cotton business is getting sillier and sillier.

As an old field hand who could pick up to 25 pounds of cotton a day in my youth, I have always been an admirer of cotton stalks both blooming and bearing. And I might have been tempted to plant some in my back yard if I hadn't seen what happened to poor Joe Killian of Cuba, Ala.

Joe, you may recall, was the fellow who was fined $6.37 for growing twenty one-hundredths of an acre of cotton without a government allotment. He didn't pick the cotton or sell it. He just had it around to make his filling station look appropriately Southern when the Yankee tourists passed by. Maybe he let the tourists pick a boll or two to take home with them—or to lose under the seats of their cars along with branches of kumquats and seashells from Florida.

Anyhow, the government held that Joe was a lawbreaker and fined him.

That might have passed without more than a little muttered indignation in the South except for our story in the Sunday paper a few weeks ago about the cotton plot at the federal office building out at Peachtree and Seventh streets.

Somebody sent a copy of that story to the Wall Street Journal, which noted that the federal building cotton was also planted for decorative rather than commercial purposes.

How did a government office building get by with what an Alabama filling station man was fined for doing? The Wall Street Journal investigated and a friend at New York University sent me its report.

"It's all perfectly legal. After much scurrying among the lawbooks an Agriculture Department official explains that it's not special favoritism. It's a matter of arithmetic."

"The groundskeeper at the F.O.B., Atlanta, planted a plot less than 435.6 square feet. That's one-hundredth of an acre and the dividing line between what a man is free to grow and what he ain't. Joe Killian's twenty-hundredths of an acre was nine-teen-hundredths too much."

"The moral of this, we suppose," concluded the Wall Street Journal, "is not to go into cotton culture even for beauty's sake unless you are very good at fractions."

Well, my ignorance of fractions borders on the supernatural and now I'm terrified of planting a cotton seed in my porch box for fear some scout from the Agriculture Department will see it and before I know it I'll wind up in Federal Court.

It does seem silly, doesn't it?

2 Georgians Win Church Citations

Two Georgia women have been awarded citations for "Christian citizenship reflected in active participation in making and maintaining good government."

Mrs. Robert L. MacDougall of Atlanta and Mrs. Stewart Colley of Grantville were honored Thursday by the United Church Women, a department of the National Council of Churches, at the organization's seventh national assembly in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. MacDougall, a member of First Presbyterian Church, is chairman of the Atlanta Executive Committee, Democratic Party, and chairman of the executive committee responsible for holding Democratic primary elections in Atlanta.

Mrs. Colley, a member of Grantville Methodist Church, is president of the United Church Women of Georgia; chairman, Coweta County Board of Education, and state commander, American Cancer Society.

Mrs. MacDougall and Mrs. Colley were among 56 women from 17 states to receive the citizenship awards.

Artists Club To Sponsor Competition

The National Poetry Contest will again be sponsored this year by the Authors and Artists Club of Chattanooga.

Each contestant may submit two poems which may be on any subject, in any form or style, but not exceeding 32 lines. Only original and unpublished poems will be considered.

Three cash prizes of $15, $10, and $5 will be given, with six honorable mentions awarded.

Manuscripts must be submitted anonymously, accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the writer's name and address, and identified by the title of the poem written on the outside of the sealed envelope.

The contest closes April 1, 1956, and the winners will be announced in May. Entries should be sent to Lillian Vermilye Porter, 554 South Crest Rd., Chattanooga 4, Tenn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—The cotton futures market was strong Thursday, with prices for the month of December rising to 33.50.

At the start, the carryover of Wednesday's buying move extended gains to 90 cents a bale, but the trend soon was reversed as the market encountered increased liquidation and hedging.

For the time, nearby deliveries were relatively firm, with new crop positions under pressure. Toward the close, distant months rallied briskly on short covering which found offerings light. Near months were held in check by further hedging and some profit taking.

The substantial increase in the latest weekly cotton loan entries, with close to 2,000,000 of the 1935 crop now in government hands, stimulated further buying of futures.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures were mostly higher here Thursday on trade buying to fix prices and short covering. Closing prices were steady 80 cents a bale higher to five cents lower.

COTTON YIELDS—The Dept. of Agriculture estimates cotton yield per acre at 405 pounds compared with 342 pounds in 1954. With reduced acreage, farmers try to make up with more intense cultivation.

Market's Advance Stalls on 5th Day

Losses Kept to Minimum As Gains Slowly Retreat

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—The stock market ran through a string of four strong advances, and then today it turned down.

The market started briskly with prices headed higher and the second hour found it at its best.

Thereafter a slow retreat cut back the market on all fronts. It was at its worst at the close.

LOSSES QUITE MILD—Losses still were quite mild for the most of the list and seldom were greater than two points. Gains usually were cut off at around a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 30 cents at $170.10. Yesterday it was ahead $1.80, and at that time the average had retraced two-thirds of the gain lost registered in the reaction that came with news of the President's heart attack.

Today's fall was muffled by the fact that the components of the average were mixed—industrials off $1.10, rails up 30 cents and utilities off 10 cents.

MORE GAINERS—There were a few more gainers than losers in the last 489 individual issues traded. There were 42 new highs and 18 new lows for the year scored.

Volume came to 2,550,000 shares as compared with 2,580,000 shares traded yesterday.

General Motors was the day's most active issue, as it was yesterday, with a gain of a point at 49 1/2. It was ahead 1 1/2 yesterday.

Volume came to 132,000 shares. It was followed by U.S. Steel up 1/2 at 56, Benguet Consolidated Mining unchanged at 1 1/2, Chrysler up 1/2 at 93 1/2 and Sperry Rand up 1/2 at 22 1/2.

COCA-COLA TRADES—Cincinnati Milling Machine bounced up 1/2 at 73 1/2 after directors proposed a two-for-one split and raised the cash dividend to 25 cents.

Coca-Cola International, last traded Sept. 15, hit the tape with 40 shares priced at $1.025, a loss of $135 a share since the previous sale.

Among higher stocks were Butte Copper up 1/2 (on a higher dividend), American Hawaiian Steamship up 1/2 at 109 1/2, Oil Matheson 1 1/2, Southern Railway 1/2 at 101, and Texas Co. 1 1/2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed. Volume amounted to 670,000 shares as against 810,000 shares yesterday.

Corporate bonds were higher. U.S. government issues in the over the counter market were mixed.

Mixed Close Drops Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 15 cents a bale lower to 90 cents higher today.

At the start, the carryover of Wednesday's buying move extended gains to 90 cents a bale, but the trend soon was reversed as the market encountered increased liquidation and hedging.

For the time, nearby deliveries were relatively firm, with new crop positions under pressure. Toward the close, distant months rallied briskly on short covering which found offerings light. Near months were held in check by further hedging and some profit taking.

The substantial increase in the latest weekly cotton loan entries, with close to 2,000,000 of the 1935 crop now in government hands, stimulated further buying of futures.

Specializing in

CADILLACS

Right now we have one of the largest stocks in the South. '54-'55 models in most all body styles. Some of these autos are practically new—at big savings. We have traded for a lot of models from '48 through '53s and can give you the best buy in these models in Atlanta. For anything in a Cadillac see...

A CONFECTION CAKE IS EXTRA FRUITY AND SHOULD MELLOW WITH AGE
Baked in a Shallow, Square Pan for Easy Lining, Storage and Slicing

Bake Fruit Cake Now For Holidays Ahead

By JEANNE HIGGINS
Constitution Food Editor

There's a good fruit cake in your future if it's baked right away.

It's time the old-fashioned cakes chock full of fruits and nuts were stored away to mellow with age before coming out again at the holiday season. Make them large or small, light or dark. But don't let Christmas roll around without one.

A confection fruit cake is a good first try if you are new at the baking game. It's a shorter recipe than usual and baked in a square flat pan that's easy to line. And it's a good size and shape to store and to serve.

CONFECTION FRUIT CAKE

2 cups light or dark raisins (or one cup each)
1 cup fresh dates
1 cup walnut halves and large pieces
1 cup finely diced citron
1 cup finely diced candied orange peel
1 cup large, sweetest candied pineapple
1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 cup honey
1 egg
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup corn syrup

1. Rinse and drain raisins. Pit dates and leave whole. 2. Combine all fruits and nuts, reserving a little for top of cake. 3. Cream shortening and sugar together. Add honey and beat well. 4. Beat in eggs one at a time. 5. Sift flour with salt and baking powder. Blend into creamed mixture. 6. Stir in orange juice. 7. Line 9-inch square pan with two thicknesses of greased waxed paper. 8. Spread about one-fourth of batter over bottom of pan. 9. Pour remaining batter over fruit-nut mixture, blending well. Turn into pan, and smooth top. 10. Sprinkle with fruits and nuts set aside for top. 11. Set in shallow pan of hot water. Cover top with sheet of brown paper. 12. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) about three hours. 13. After one hour, remove pan of hot water and finish baking cake on shelf of oven. Cool. 14. Wrap in waxed paper or aluminum foil and store in cool place to ripen (about 2 to 4 weeks if possible). Before serving, spread top of cake with boiling hot corn syrup to glaze. Makes one (9-inch) square (about 4 lbs.).

For a good old-fashioned dark fruit cake you can't beat this one made extra juicy and good with grape jelly and grape juice. (See inside for special light fruit cake.)

DARK FRUIT CAKE

1/2 cup sugar
1 lb. butter or margarine (2 cups)
12 beaten egg yolks
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. salt (if butter or margarine is unsalted)
1 cup grape juice
1 cup brandy or wine
1 lb. seedling raisins
1 lb. candied orange and lemon peel
1 lb. coarsely chopped figs
1 lb. whole pecan meats
1 cup candied cherries
1 egg white
1 tsp. salt

1. Sift sugar. 2. Cream butter

Do's and Don'ts On Fruit Cake Baking, Storing

A few do's and don'ts about fruit-cake baking are very good to know.

To start at the beginning, line pans with heavy waxed paper cut to fit and large enough to reach to top of pan.

Fill all pans three-quarters full before baking.

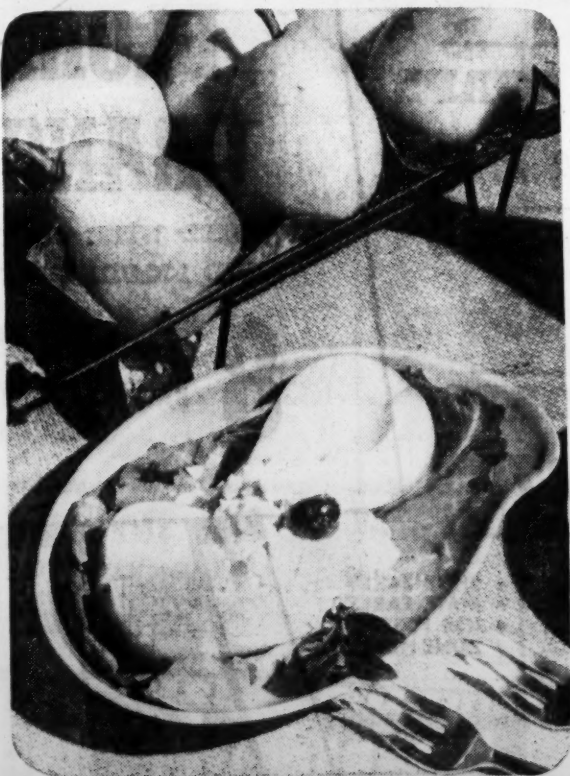

Fruit cakes very rich in fruit are more moist if they are steamed for the greater part of baking time. To steam in the oven place shallow pans of water to cover shelf in oven. Place pans of fruit cake on shelf above. Remove pans of water for last 15 minutes of baking.

Cool before removing from pan. Remove waxed paper and store in tightly covered containers. Sprinkle, lightly if you like, with brandy, wine or grape juice once a week until used.

Glaze shortly before serving or gift wrapping. Heat the corn syrup to boiling (this keeps it from being sticky on the cake) and brush on. Garnish with additional nuts and fruits if desired.

Good Fruit Dressing

FRESH PEARS BOOST MEALS ALL DAY AND YEAR
Make Them a Salad for Lunch With Cheese and Dressing

Pears Go Around The Clock

Fresh pears are good for you, good to you and good for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

And once you try serving them around the clock, you'll agree.

Bosc and Anjou are the variety for this time of year. And they are as good broiled with bacon for breakfast as they are baked in a pie for dessert at dinner.

BROILED PEARS

To broil the pears, cut them in halves and remove the cores. Place them cut side up on the broiler pan. Brush the pears with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with sugar and a bit of cinnamon. Broil until tender, about eight to 10 minutes.

When done, fill core cavities of the pears with mint jelly and arrange on platter with broiled bacon.

PEAR SALAD

For lunch, it's a salad you'll want. Pears combine beautifully with other fruits for a mid-day treat. On each salad plate, arrange a bed of greens. Place on these, slices of orange and fresh pears. Stuff dates with cream cheese and add for a focal point. Top all with mayonnaise of your favorite fruit salad dressing.

For dinner, you can't miss everyone's taste with a pear pie.

PEAR PIE

3/4 cup sugar
3 tbsps. flour
Dash salt
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
1 tbsps. butter
Pastry for double crust
1. Place pear slices into mixing bowl and cover with sugar, flour, salt and spice mixture. 2. Add grated rind and juice of lemon. 3. Turn into pastry lined pie plate and dot with butter. 4. Arrange upper crust, seal and prick. 5. Bake at 425 degrees for 35 minutes.

Dressed Asparagus Makes Tangy Salad

Marinate asparagus (fresh-cooked or canned) after you have drained them, in a tangy French dressing. Serve on salad greens and garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs. To "rice" the eggs, force them through a small fine strainer with a teaspoon.

VERSATILE MEAT SAUCE THAT'S QUICK, EASY
Serve It With Rice, Spaghetti Or Kidney Beans

Meat Sauce Recipe Is 30-Minute Gem

A really good meat sauce is a recipe gem. And here's one that is a versatile companion with rice, spaghetti or kidney beans.

It's a quick blend of ground beef, vegetables and herbs that's easily made at the last minute or far in advance.

QUICK TOMATO MEAT SAUCE DELUXE
4 tablespoons (1/2-stick) butter
1 pound ground beef
2 medium onions, sliced
1 clove garlic minced
1 can (20 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 teaspoons salt
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

WHITE FRUIT CAKE
1 lb. powdered sugar (sifted)
3 sticks butter or margarine
6 eggs
1 lb. sifted plain flour (may be measured in sugar box)
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup coconut milk
1 tsp. almond flavoring
1 tsp. whiskey
1 lb. crystallized cherries, sliced
1 lb. crystallized pineapple, sliced
1 lb. crystallized citron, cut fine
1/2 crystallized lemon peel, ground
1/4 lb. crystallized orange peel, ground
1 lb. white raisins
6 cups shelled pecans or other nuts, chopped
1 fresh coconut grated fine
1. Cream shortening and sifted sugar until light and fluffy. 2. Add eggs, one at a time, and beat well. 3. Add flavoring and whiskey. 4. Sift flour and salt three times and add alternately with coconut milk. 5. Dredge fruits, nuts and coconut with extra flour. 6. Pour batter over fruit mixture and mix well. 7. Pour into pans and bake at 225 degrees, 4 hours. 8. Decorate as desired. Make 10 pounds cake. Cake will slice well if thoroughly chilled.

Pineapple Salad Enhances Buffet Holiday Tables
This attractive pale green salad may be prepared a day in advance. It would enhance a buffet party table.

PINEAPPLE SALAD
1 1-pound can crushed pineapple
Juice from pineapple
1 package lime gelatin
1 tablespoon sugar
1 16-ounce carton cream-style cottage cheese
1/4 pound marshmallows, cut into eighths
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 cup cream, whipped
1. Drain pineapple. Heat juice to boiling. Dissolve gelatin in juice. Add sugar. Chill until partially thickened. Fold in pineapple and remaining ingredients. Turn into a mold and chill for several hours or until firm.

Cranberry, Lima Combo New And Delicious

"Cranberry Limas" are a perfectly delicious combination of ham, California large dry limas and canned cranberry sauce. Sounds unusual, yet tastes delicious!

CRANBERRY LIMAS
1 (No. 1 tall) can jellied cranberry sauce
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 cups diced cooked ham
2 1/2 cups cooked California large dry limas
Beat cranberry sauce, prepared mustard and orange rind with rotary beater. Add ham. Turn undrained limas into 1 1/2-quart casserole and pour cranberry mixture over them. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees (F.)) about 1 hour.

Add Ground Allspice To Lamb Patties

Enjoy making this Clabber Girl... upside down cake

Upside Down Gingerbread Yield: 4-6 servings

1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
4 slices canned pineapple, drained
4 to 8 maraschino cherries, drained
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons Clabber Girl Baking Powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup beet or cane sugar
1 egg
1/4 cup dark molasses
1/4 cup milk

Spread melted butter or margarine in bottom of oiled or greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Spread brown sugar on top. Arrange pineapple slices (whole or cut) and maraschino cherries in pattern on top of sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder, spices, and soda. Cream together shortening and sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg and molasses. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and milk alternately, a little of each at a time. Spread on top of pineapple. Bake at 350°F. (moderate oven) about 50 minutes. Let stand for 5 minutes in pan. Turn upside down on serving plate. Cut in squares or oblongs, and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Don't let yourself forget how easy and how good your baking can be (with Clabber Girl, of course).

A WEEKLY ADVERTISING COLUMN
New York, Nov. 10—Any time's a good time to serve VERMONT MAID Syrup... for it's a real treat morning, noon or night! For example, try it: At breakfast... a top tall stack of pancakes, made quickly, easily and perfectly with Pillsbury Buttermilk Pancake Mix. At lunch... a golden crown for waffles, which I also suggest you make with Pillsbury Buttermilk Pancake Mix. It's Vermont Maid that makes 'em taste so good... because it's a perfect blend of cane and maple sugars and has a real mm-mmm maple sugar flavor that everybody loves. So better get the big 24-ounce family size two-handed jug when you shop... you'll need it!

GO FANCY for the holidays with a glorious new dessert... which you can make so easily with KNOX Unflavored Gelatine. I call it:
FRUIT COCKTAIL EGGNOG PIE
Drain 1 No. 2 1/2 can fruit cocktail thoroughly. Add 1 evap. Knox Unflavored Gelatine, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/4 tsp. salt together thoroughly in saucepan. Gradually stir in 2 cups commercially prepared eggnog, warm over direct heat until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved, stirring occasionally. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. 1/2 tsp. vanilla, 1/4 tsp. almond extract and 1/2 cups drained fruit cocktail. Chill again until mixture mounds. Heap into baked 9" pie shell, decorate with remaining fruit cocktail; chill until firm.

THE HANDIEST SOUP to keep on hand these busy days is Campbell's Cream of Asparagus... for it's surprisingly low in calories and balances speedy lunches and suppers with extra nourishment. And what a treat... with its tender asparagus spears, carefully cooked, and then blended with sweet milk and fine dairy butter. It's a superb cooking soup, too... as you'll see if you try this delicious main dish that's one of my family's favorites:
HAM 'N' EGG 'N' CORNBREAD CASSEROLE
Combine 1 can Cream of Asparagus with 1/4 cup milk, 1 cup diced, cooked ham or lunchmeat and 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs. Heat thoroughly, serve over cornbread or biscuits. 4 hearty servings.

FOR A FESTIVE FEAST any Fall day, I suggest this appetizing delight... which "starred" on the KRAFT TV Theatre this week:
FRIED CHICKEN
Blend 1/2 cup flour, 1 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, and put in paper bag. Place 1 fryer chicken (10 to 12 lbs.) cut up in bag and shake well. Pour Kraft All Purpose Oil into skillet to depth of 1 inch. When oil is hot, put in meaty pieces of chicken and as those begin to brown, slip in the less meaty pieces. Do not crowd; use 2 skillets if necessary. When all the pieces are lightly brown, cover tightly and cook 30 to 60 min., depending on size of chicken. Turn 2 or 3 times to brown and cook evenly. Serve fried chicken on a hot platter. If gravy is desired, it can be made from pan drippings, using leftover seasoned flour.
Or rub seasoned flour into chicken pieces.

STRETCH YOUR NYLONS!
DON'T MISS THIS exciting HOSIERY OFFER... your chance to get 60-gauge Powers Model stretch nylons at less than half price! Their retail value is actually $1.95... but thanks to KRAFT, they're yours for only 75¢ and the end flap from a package of Parkay Margarine. Or you can choose beautiful 60-gauge Powers Model regular nylons... at the same money-saving price. Both are available in two lovely shades, too... Riviera (a sunny beige) and Monte Carlo (a go-with-everything taupe) in your choice of dark seam or self-color seam. Complete details on the Parkay Margarine package... so stock up today and order your sheer, fluttering nylons.

Own A Freezer?
Lucky you. Seems everywhere I go I hear about BIRDS EYE'S Touchdown Sale... wonderful buys on the All-American Line of Frozen Foods. Here's your chance to stock up on those luscious Birds Eye fruits and farm-fresh vegetables. And for quick meals, be sure to lay in a good supply of Birds Eye meat pies... Beef, Chicken or Turkey. Just one more tip... if they aren't all sold out at your store, try Birds Eye Fish Sticks, a special treat at a very special price!

KNOW HOW I DRESS UP all kinds of meals? I serve individual saucers of GREENWOOD'S Pickled Beets as a side dish or salad... for they have a bright, ruby-red sparkle that not only adds beauty to the table, but also boasts a special tang and sweet-spicy flavor that brightens the duller appetites! Greenwood's Pickled Beets are so easy, too... you just open the jar and they're ready. Try them once... I'm sure you'll love them as much as I do. And you'll be just as enthusiastic about GREENWOOD'S Harvard Beets... rosy-rich cubes of tender, buttery goodness... in a savory sweet-spicy glazed sauce. All you do is heat... and what a treat!

GLAMOROUS BARGAIN... these imported, pure silk slippers. Exquisitely embroidered in traditional dragon design, their retail value is $3... but for a limited time only, they're yours for only $1 and one label from any La Choy product! La Choy offers you 17 exotic dishes... so try one or all... then fill in the order blank below for your lovely imported slippers!

Weekly Menus

Pears, Turkey, Potatoes, Pork Plentiful

November promises to be a good time to serve pork and pork products often. Pork supplies, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are plentiful, and during November are expected to average 10 per cent heavier than a year ago. Fresh pears, turkeys and potatoes are also stars for the month and deserve a good place in this week's menus.

Western Ranch Dinner
All Baked in Only One Pan

1 Cut-up Jesse Jewell's Frozen Frying Chicken
1 Large can White House Evaporated Milk
Bisquick
1 No. 2 1/2 can Iona Cling Peach Halves
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons paprika
1/2 cup shortening
Whole cloves

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Dip cut-up JESSE JEWELL CHICKEN in 1/2 cup undiluted WHITE HOUSE

EVAPORATED MILK*, then roll in a mixture of 1 cup BISQUICK*, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons paprika. Then melt 1/2 cup shortening in a 13x9x2" pan in the oven, add the chicken, skin side down, and bake 50 to 60 minutes. Meanwhile, make Bisquick drop biscuit dough using diluted White House Evaporated Milk.
Move chicken to one end of pan. Drain a No. 2 1/2 can IONA CLING PEACH halves, arrange on chicken. Spoon biscuit dough into the other end of pan, bake 15 minutes more. Remove food to hot plates. For gravy: blend in 1/4 cup Bisquick mixture (saved from dipping) into drippings in pan. Stir in 1 cup White House Evaporated Milk. Heat but do not boil. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Easy-to-Make Sandwiches For Quick Lunch Packing

One way to help eliminate the mad morning rush of dressing, breakfast, and sandwich-making is to have sandwich fillings made ahead and conveniently ready in freezer jars.

Here are two suggestions of popular and nutritious sandwich fillings—both add canned or frozen lemon juice to canned seafood for flavor, and both freeze beautifully.

LEMON-SALMON SPREAD
1 can (1 lb.) red salmon
1 cup pickle relish
3 tablespoons canned or frozen lemon juice
Cooked salad dressing.

enough to moisten.

OLD MEXICO MACARONI DISH WITH BACON
Tomato Soup, Onions and Green Peppers Add The Flavor

Quick Macaroni Dish With Mexican Flavor

Shine up your favorite skillet. That's the only equipment you'll need for this spicy macaroni main dish.

Just brown diced bacon in your skillet and add chopped onion and green pepper for flavor. For sauce, stir in a can of tomato soup and a cup of water. When this mixture boils, add a dash of cloves and either elbow macaroni or macaroni bows. Cover the skillet. After just 15 minutes simmering, old Mexico macaroni is ready for your supper table.

Set your table with extra slices of crisp, smoky bacon.

1½ cups condensed tomato soup (10½-ounce can)
1 cup water
Dash of ground cloves
4 ounces elbow macaroni or bows

1. Brown bacon in heavy skillet. 2. Add onion and green pepper and brown lightly. 3. Add soup and water, stirring until well blended. 4. Bring mixture to boiling. Add cloves and macaroni and mix well. 5. Cover, reduce heat and simmer gently 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

Party Cakes Go Easy With 3 Quick Mixes

Cakes, some party and some hearty, are all easy to prepare with new packaged mixes.

Newest on the shelves are chocolate angel food, caramel and a packaged kit for making a yellow cake with chocolate frosting.

Topped with whipped cream and crushed peppermint candy, the chocolate angel food is quite party-like.

Caramel cake, an all-occasion standby, will bring orders for seconds, especially prepared with a baked-on chocolate and nut topping.

Easy Tomatoes With Stuffing

Cut the tomatoes in half and top each half with mound of egg salad. Mash the eggs in making the salad so the mixture will make an easily managed topping. Serve the stuffed tomato halves on greens; pass French dressing or mayonnaise. A little minced or grated onion added to the egg salad will give it zip.

Potato Salad Garnish

Simple Afternoon Date Nut Cake

There's nothing like something good to serve with ice cream for an afternoon refreshment. And a good choice is a simple cake baked in one layer and cut in squares just right for a big dip of ice cream.

The cake is date-nut with a subtle flavoring of both maple and vanilla. Try serving it with coffee ice cream. The flavor contrast is very good. And you'll have a winning dessert.

Bananas, Custard

as well as between-meal refreshment.

DATE NUT CAKE

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 1/4 cups brown sugar
- 2 eggs, separated
- 2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
- 3 teaspoons double action baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon maple flavoring
- 2 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup finely chopped dates
- 1 quart ice cream

1. Butter a 9-inch-square cake pan. 2. Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. 3. Add egg yolks one at a time; beat well after each addition. 4. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Sift once. 5. Add vanilla and maple flavoring to milk. Add 1/2 of dry ingredients to creamed mixture. Mix well. 6. Add half of the remaining dry ingredients and all the liquid. Mix well. 7. Add nuts and dates to the remaining flour; mix well. 8. Add to cake mixture and stir until thoroughly blended. 9. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites into cake mixture carefully but thoroughly. 10. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees until done, 50 to 55 minutes. 11. Cool 15 minutes on rack. Remove from pan or cut in squares in pan for serving.

Ginger Ale Boosts Flavor of Fruit Pie

Did you ever hear of using ginger ale in a pie? When ginger ale is combined with apple sauce, apple-flavored gelatin and heavy cream, it makes an excellent pie filling.

SAUCY APPLE FILLING

- 2 cups applesauce
- 1/4-1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 package apple flavored gelatin dessert
- 1 cup cold ginger ale
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

several hours or until mixture mounds. 5. Fold in cream. Turn into baked pie shell. 6. Chill until set. 7. If desired, garnish each serving with dab of whipped cream and sprinkling of chopped nuts.

Don't Skimp on Tea

If you use less than one to 1 1/2 teaspoons of tea to a cup of water, you won't have a good strong bracing beverage. And be sure to let the tea steep for five minutes.

Varied Snap Beans

Want to vary green snap beans? Add the cooked beans to a cream sauce and top with bits of crisply cooked bacon. Use bacon fat in making the cream sauce, if you like a lot of bacon flavor.

New Creamed Shrimp

Place creamed shrimp, crab or other sea food in scallop shells or ramekins. Top with drained crushed pineapple and bits of butter. Then bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) from 12 to 15 minutes.

'Colonel' on Trial for Fake AF Trip

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP)—day of the federal trial of Jack Kenneth Brown, 26, showed he presented himself at Brookley Air Force Base, Mobile, wearing the insignia of a lieutenant colonel. Witnesses said he drew up some "very authentic-looking" orders which he stamped "top secret," and was flown in a four-motored plane nonstop to Bermuda, "to assist in a secret project" at Kindley AFB there.

Capt. Donald P. Davis, copilot of the C74 transport which took "Lt. Col. H. Lee Royal" to the British island, said he could not recall if there was any other passenger aboard.

Another witness, Earl H. Williams, handwriting expert from the FBI's national laboratory at Washington, identified signatures on checks and other documents as Brown's.

Brown is charged in an indictment with cashing four fraudulent checks totaling $149.50 at Brookley July 12 and 13, 1954, along with the impersonation charge.

Two witnesses said Brown was permitted to use a typewriter in a section at Brookley where classified documents were kept, and one said he once was left alone in the section.

Hmm... Sugar in your tea? Is that smart when you're reducing?

You need sugar for its "energy lift." Besides, 3 teaspoons of Domino Sugar contain fewer calories than your apple!

It's smart to stay slim and trim and get Domino's "Energy Lift" too!

Which is Less Fattening?

Yes, 3 teaspoons of Domino Sugar actually contain fewer calories than 1 medium apple!

MADE IN THE SOUTH

Sure, you need Domino Sugar to sweeten coffee, tea and your favorite foods. But equally important... Domino Pure Cane Sugar supplies quick-energy—fast. Faster than any other food.

What's more, there are only 18 calories in a teaspoon of Domino Sugar. That's fewer calories than in many "reducing diet" foods! So if you're reducing, remember: "Sugar-starved" people often lose pep and energy instead of weight! Just as Apples are famous for their health values—in a well-balanced diet, Domino Sugar helps supply the quick food-energy you need every day for pep and vitality.

So be smart... use a sensible amount of satisfying, low-calorie, high-energy Domino Sugar at every meal... for only one sugar is Domino Pure.

FREE! For the safe, sure way to lose weight without losing pep, or giving up Sugar... send now for Domino's New Reducing Diet Booklet! Address: The American Sugar Refining Co., Box 2280, New Orleans 16, La.

ACROBATIC PIG—TAYLOR, Tex., Nov. 10—This little porker is determined not to wind up on the dinner table. Instead it would rather join an animal act and prove its ability as a performer by walking around the barnyard on its front feet. Owned by Hugo Lindequist of Taylor, the registered Berkshire began walking in this unipig fashion after the mother pig sat on the baby and rendered its hind legs useless.

Catholics Modernize 7 Old Testament Books

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Roman Catholic officials today announced a new translation of seven books of the Old Testament, "going back to more reliable sources" and aimed at "satisfying the modern reader."

For one thing, the new translation drops the obsolete "thee," "thou," "hath" and "hast" and turns to contemporary usage.

WELFARE CONFERENCE

The National Catholic Welfare Conference said a notable difference from the Douay version, used by Catholics in English-speaking countries since the 17th Century, is the changing of the name of Ecclesiastes to the Book of Sirach.

The Book of Sirach, along with the Book of Wisdom, which also appears in the new translation, is not included in the Protestant version of the Bible.

In addition to Wisdom and Sirach, the new volume contains Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and the Canticle of Canticles.

Some of the differences between the Douay-Rheims Bible and the new translation are shown in the following passage from the Book of Proverbs:

Old: "As he that taketh a dog by the ears, so is he that passeth by in anger and meddles with another man's quarrel."

FROM SIRACHI

Also from the Book of Sirach: Old: "A good wife is a good portion; she shall be given in the portion of them that fear God, to a man for his good deeds. Rich or poor, if his heart is good, his countenance shall be cheerful at all times."

CAPITOL NOTEBOOK

Duncan Hailed
By Educators

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Rep. Ebb Duncan of Carroll County, a real friend of education, received something the other night which—as Regent Quimby Melton Jr. of Griffin observes—doesn't come very often for good workers. That is: Proper recognition for the fine service shown by the legislator.

A group of Carroll countians gave a testimonial dinner honoring Duncan for the aid he has given education in Georgia. Members of the Board of Regents, President Irving Ingram of West Georgia College at Carrollton, and other ranking educational officials were present. And, as Regent Francis Stubbs of Douglas reports, most of them made speeches praising Ebb.

Duncan has helped both the common schools and the University System during his legislative career. He has served as chairman of a House Education Committee. A few years ago, he campaigned for passage of the sales tax to finance the Minimum Foundation Program for Education. His most recent service was as chairman of a special legislative committee which studied the University System. Duncan was particularly interested in developing the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia (as it was known then).

Speaking of tributes: The Regents named the rural arts building at West Georgia College the "Martha Munro Ingram Building" in honor of the late wife of President Ingram. And, the State Pharmaceutical Board, honoring Dr. R. C. Coleman with a dinner here, gave him a suitable gift as he retired after 25 years' service with the joint examiners' board—a chair.

Some Tech men caused the "Ramblin' Wreck" tune to be regarded as Georgia's song over the nation. At least that's what L. W. (Chip) Robert, Atlanta who is prominent in National Democratic Party affairs, says.

As secretary-treasurer of the Democratic National Convention in 1940, Robert said he appointed a committee to select entertainment and music for the convention. He picked Carter Barron, famous Tech alumnus and manager of Loew's Theaters; Y. Frank Freeman, son of Paramount Studios executive, and Frank Walker, son of the former postmaster general, to head the committee.

"It was quite natural that these Tech men suggested Ramblin' Wreck as the theme song for the convention," Techman Robert commented. Then he added unnecessarily that the Tech tune has a "rollicking tempo, easy to follow and is inspiring."

Since the audience of 10,000 to 15,000 delegates from every state in the Union got in the habit of singing and whistling the tune in 1940, "Ramblin' Wreck" became associated with the State of Georgia in the minds of the nation, Robert said.

38th Anniversary
To Be Marked
By Third Army

The United States Third Army, with headquarters in Atlanta, celebrates its 38th anniversary Nov. 15.

The Third Army, created in France and composed of battle-tested World War I combat units, occupied Germany after the war. In World War II, the Third Army stormed through Germany in one of the most devastating combat marches in history.

Today the Third Army's mission is training troops for defense and the birthday anniversary will find about 40 per cent of its troops on maneuvers in Louisiana. The maneuvers are part of Sagebrush, the largest joint military maneuver operation since World War II.

Additional Uptown Parking Is Sought in College Park

The College Park City Council has voted to seek additional uptown parking space along the right-of-way of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad.

Council will attempt to negotiate a plan with railway officials whereby part of the Main street right-of-way between Princeton and John Wesley avenues will be set aside for parking purposes.

In other actions, the council deferred action on a petition to change the name of part of First avenue to Mimosa drive pending a canvass as to the wishes of all First avenue residents; voted to take bids on radio equipment which would bring the city

10 in Forest Park

In the race for mayor are incumbent James K. Currie, W. B. Alexander, Douglas L. Harper and D. M. Johnson.

School Sites Eyed

Four sites are under consideration for construction of a new Little Red School for Handicapped Children, Jack Gray, chairman of the board of trustees, has announced.

Gray said, "we're looking primarily for acreage for installation of playground equipment."

Essayists, Orators

Junior essayists and orators from four southside high schools will participate in the South Fulton Jaycees' annual Voice of Democracy contest, according to Norman Holland and Ralph McCroskey, cochairmen for the event.

Under the contest plan, officials at Russell, Hapeville, College Park and Campbell high schools will select their school's best orator-essayist. The winning student at each school will tape-record his essay, which must be on a general "democracy" theme. The best of the four tapes will be entered in the state and possibly the national eliminations.

The Luscious

Right now Florida Grapefruit are heavy with juice, full of fresh bracing flavor, plentiful, and so low priced. And, as always, they're just what your diet ordered for good health, and a good figure. Slimmingly low in calories, they also help build resistance to colds and infections with their alkalizing action and rich supply of vitamin C... the vitamin you need daily because your body can't store it up. So buy big bags of them, and enjoy this luscious "Unforbidden Fruit" today and every day!
